Hasty evacuation of the population in the district near Poydras, La., 10 miles south of New Orleans, was in progress today.

Removal of the inhabitants from that section was ordered by Gov. O. H. Simpson of Louisiana, preparatory to dynamiting the levee at Poydras to relieve the Mississippi river flood menace in the lower delta.

At noon Friday the Poydras levee will be blown up, permitting millions of gallons of water to pour out over the lowlands.

The flooding of the Poydras area will relieve pressure on levees upstream and insure New Orleans and other Louisiana towns absolute safety when the flood crest reaches there.

Before the levee is cut below New Orleans, all inhabitants of the area that is to be inundated and their livestock will be removed. A fund is being raised by New Orleans business men to pay for the damage to their property.

The Mississippi river today continued its rise to the south of Greenville, Miss., and the crest will shortly reach Vicksburg. Additional hundreds of refugees were being evacuated from Mississippi and Arkansas towns.

Two tributaries of the Mississippi—the Arkansas and Ouachita rivers—were on renewed rampages and sweeping more territory in Arkansas. Several more towns were inundated. Known dead in the flood district number more than 120, and from 150,000 to 175,000 are homeless.

Further reports of heavy loss of life cannot be confirmed until communication with isolated regions is re-established. A correspondent of The Memphis Press-Scimitar returning by airplane from Greenville said stories of refugees indicated the dead might number 250, mostly negroes, in that district alone.

Before the flood sweeps on into the Gulf of Mexico, the property damage will reach $150,000,000 or $250,000,000, and possibly an even higher figure.

Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, and his flood relief mission, arrived in New Orleans today after an inspection tour of the flood district.

Vicksburg, Miss., April 27.—An army of 50,000 persons is fighting to save the southland from inundation.

Along the slopes of the Mississippi river, which in many places has leaped out of bounds to swell over rich acres, workmen patrol the levees attempting to stop any leaks that might unleash the mighty river on the fertile territory.

"We are leaving nothing undone," Charles H. West, senior member of the Mississippi river commission, announced. "We have 50,000 men working on the levees. But we fear when the great force of the river hits."

West is fearful that many sections of river bottom land cannot be saved from the mighty flow of the overflowing river, despite precautions taken by government, state and relief organizations.

From throughout the territory came word of distress today. Arkansas is reported to be suffering with rivers continuing on their turbulent flood paths. There is even a report that disease has taken hold in several communities.

Chief fears expressed are that the Mississippi and Red rivers will combine to send destruction to new fields. The flood is not expected to hit that southern area for three days, but in case the overflow comes more than 200,000 people in Louisiana will be forced from their homes, it was said.

The breaking of the levee near New Orleans probably will relieve the situation considerably, engineers said.

Vicksburg, Miss., April 27.—The fate of scores of persons who sought refuge from the swift flood currents on a bridge across the Sunflower river, near Hollandale, Miss., was unknown at the Vicksburg rescue headquarters today.

Red Cross workers last night received an emergency call from Rolling Fork, Miss., saying that the bridge near Hollandale was crowded with refugees and that there were Mexico City, April 27.—(UP)—A friendly agreement between the United States and Mexico in the dispute over alien land and oil laws was predicted today by President Calles in response to President Coolidge's address at the United Press Associations twentieth anniversary dinner in New York Monday.

"I believe with President Coolidge that, as long as the present live desire exists to maintain cordial relations, it will be not only possible but easy with all security to arrive at a friendly agreement," he said.

Mexico never denied the right of owners of expropriated agricultural properties to compensation, Calles said.

The swift current was piling up debris of houses swept from upstream against the bridge and it was in danger of going out and carrying with it scores gathered on the structure, the report to the Red Cross said.

The steamer Vicksburg left the mouth of the Choctaw river immediately for the danger point near Hollandale. The steamer Murray also hurried to the scene.

It was believed the two vessels took the victims off during the night, but with all communications out, it was impossible here to learn the situation.

Both vessels will steam down the river here as fast as possible, but will not reach Vicksburg before nightfall. Both are without radio facilities.

LEVEE TO BE DYNAMITED

Memphis, Tenn., April 27.—Anxiety of hundreds of inhabitants in the lower delta region over the rise of the Mississippi river flood in that section was relieved today as preparations were made to dynamite the levee on the east bank 10 miles below New Orleans.

Orders for a cut in the levee at Poydras below New Orleans were issued last night by Gov. O. H. Simpson of Louisiana after such a course had been approved by the Mississippi river commission and Major General Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers.

The break will liberate a tremendous volume of water and relieve flood conditions throughout Louisiana and farther upstream.

The Mississippi continued dropping slowly at Memphis and northern points. Farther south it is still rising as the crest of the flood passes toward the Gulf.

From Arkansas came reports of acute suffering both from high water and disease. From southern Illinois came reports that flood waters were creeping over a large acreage through a new levee break. From Louisiana came the report that St. Bernard parish was to be flooded through the necessity of dynamiting a levee in order to save New Orleans.

London, April 27.—(UP)—The mint at Canton was afire today and communists were charged with starting the blaze, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Hongkong said. Secret executions of communists were reported to be occurring nightly in Canton.

A great troop movement from Wuhu towards Nanking was reported by Sir Percival Phillips, Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail. Forty thousand men were on the march, he said, but it was impossible to learn whether they were adherents of the Hankow radical government, advancing to attack Nanking, or Chiang Kai-Shek moderate nationalist troops to reinforce the Nanking defenses.

The British warships Mantis, Kepel and Wolsey were reported to have engaged Chinese ashore with artillery fire. Foreign property in Nanking still was being stolen and sold at auction, Sir Percival reported.

Shanghai, April 27.—Northern forces were reported to be preparing for an attack on Hankow, seat of the Eugene Chen wing of the nationalists.

All available men, including the "Red Spears" or guerrillas, were being gathered for the drive, leaving only a skeleton force to defend northern territory, the reports said.

Meanwhile, General Chiang Kai-Shek, leader of the moderate nationalists, sent two regiments to Shanghai, where he said a communist uprising was imminent. The city appeared to be calm, however.

New York, April 27.—(UP)—With death in a Virginia marsh eliminating two more American fliers from the race to make the first non-stop flight from New York to Paris, a little Bellanca monoplane, the Columbia, stood almost alone as America's contender.

Capt. Rene Fonck, whose attempt last year ended in disaster, arrived today on the French liner Paris and announced he would try again for France, but not until September.

The Bellanca, holder of the world endurance flight record, was one of three American planes being prepared for the flight.

The first to be eliminated were Lieut. Commander Richard E. Byrd and Floyd Bennett, whose Fokker plane crashed recently on its first trial flight near Hasbrouck Heights, N. J. Both fliers were uninjured.

Yesterday, during their final trial flight, Lieut. Commander Noel Davis and Lieut. Stanton H. Wooster were killed when their giant Pathfinder plane crashed near Langley field, Va.

Even the Bellanca has not been free from bad luck. While taking off on a test flight at Mitchell field Sunday, a strut was broken, crippling a wheel. Clarence D. Chamberlin, at the controls, narrowly averted disaster.

A new strut has replaced the broken apparatus and another test was scheduled today, with Chamberlin at the controls.

Although the death of Davis and Wooster cast gloom over the pilots and mechanics working at Mitchell field, there has been no discouragement over the Bellanca plane's prospects.

Although it is planned to send the Bellanca on its trans-oceanic trip as soon as weather conditions permit, only one of the two fliers to make the trip has been named. He is Lloyd W. Berland, air mail pilot and expert navigator. His companion will be either Chamberlin or Bert Acosta, both of whom piloted the Bellanca when it shattered the world endurance flight record. They probably will toss for the honor.

The only other American planning the flight was Charles Lindbergh, the St. Louis entry, and it was not believed he would be ready before the Bellanca.

"Everything will be in perfect shape before I shall start," Fonck said. "I am not going to rush the flight. When I do go, I know I can make the trip faster than any other who may precede me."

A Sikorsky plane, of the same type body and motor as that in which he started on his former attempt, is being constructed here for his attempt this fall, Fonck said. Lindbergh is a former resident of Little Falls, Minn.

ALLEGED TO HAVE EN-
GNEERED THE STEAL

St. Paul, April 27.—(UP)—The unparalleled spectacle of attorneys for the defense examining and permitting cross examination of all their witnesses in advance of criminal trial was provided in St. Paul federal court today.

The attorneys represent Frank W. Sommer, Daniel Hogan and George E. Blaul, indicted on charges of engineering the $35,000 South St. Paul mail robbery in 1923. Their trial has been continued to July 3, but their counsel by candid revelations of the defense case hopes to persuade the government to dismiss the action.

Although the extra-legal proceeding is without precedent in federal court history, government prosecutors consented to go through with it, and all 50 of the defense witnesses are being heard in court, with spectators and newspapermen barred. No government witnesses will testify.

Trial of the three men was continued late Tuesday after Tommy O'Connor, one of the government's chief witnesses—but not the "Terrible Tommy" of Chicago jail escape notoriety—had given a signed statement to a newspaper, repudiating what he said was his previous testimony before the federal grand jury that returned the indictment.

O'Connor on Sunday deserted two postal inspectors who were "escorting" him from Chicago, leaving the train at Chippewa Falls, Wis., while they were asleep. Twenty-four hours later he was located at Fond du Lac, Wis. He said he had attempted to avoid appearing to testify because his conscience hurt him and he could not go through with the story the government expected him to tell.

The statement he signed later charged that Terry Moran, another government witness, who is serving a sentence in the Leavenworth penitentiary for his part in the mail robbery, "framed" a false case against Sommer, Hogan and Blaul.

Sommer formerly was St. Paul chief of police and is an ex-secret service agent; Hogan is a restaurant owner, and Blaul is Great Western railroad agent at South St. Paul.

Washington, April 27.—(UP)—Deaths of Lieut. Commander Noel Davis and Lieut. S. H. Wooster today were laid to the impact resulting when their giant biplane, intended to carry them across 3,600 miles of ocean from New York to Paris in a single hop, failed to negotiate a small marsh near Langley field, Va. A Hampton Roads naval board of inquiry returned the "impact" decision after a long night session in which the bodies were examined and the wreck of the great plane, the "American Legion," was viewed where it lay, cockpit down, in mud and five inches of water.

Previously an official record of "drowning" had been entered here after early reports from the accident yesterday morning indicated the men had been submerged below the shallow waters of the marsh. Injuries to head and shoulders of the aviators indicated, however, that the force of the crash had smashed down upon them huge extra gasoline tanks suspended above them.

The bodies of Davis and Wooster were to be sent here today from Portsmouth, Va., by train. Mrs. Davis, young widow of the flight commander, who was at Langley field when her 36-year-old husband's life was snuffed out, came early and joined her small son who had been kept in ignorance of the tragedy.

Washington, April 27.—For the first time, prohibition will come before a national gathering of the League of Women Voters, as part of the program of the national council meeting which opened formally here today.

But the discussion of this subject, as well as the others which will be brought before the women from 45 states, will be behind closed doors. All sessions will be secret, the press not being admitted.

The reason given is that this is a meeting of the council and not a national convention. Conventions of the organization now are held every two years instead of annually as formerly.

The council is to decide whether it will make a study of prohibition, as it does of other national issues. If a study is undertaken, it will be exhaustive.

The league is for law enforcement and its study would be directed toward better methods of enforcing the prohibition law. Prohibition was injected into this meeting by a petition from the Massachusetts league that it be placed on the study program.

In its four day convention here, the league will discuss many other live topics, including foreign relations, "corrupt" legislation and legislation for women and children, including the proposed child labor amendment to the constitution.

Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the league, appealed to the women in her opening address to foster "political education" not only among women, but among citizens generally, declaring that "the laboratory for political educational institution," she said. "We must get a glimpse of what the establishment of political education for all the people would mean in the evolution of democratic life and government."

They probably will toss for the honor.

The only other American planning the flight was Charles Lindbergh, the St. Louis entry, and it was not believed he would be ready before the Bellanca.

"Everything will be in perfect shape before I shall start," Fonck said. "I am not going to rush the flight. When I do go, I know I can make the trip faster than any other who may precede me."

A Sikorsky plane, of the same type body and motor as that in which he started on his former attempt, is being constructed here for his attempt this fall, Fonck said.

Lindbergh is a former resident of Little Falls, Minn.

JUMPED ON BED, FELL OUT OF WINDOW

Chelsea, Mass., April 27.—(UP)—While jumping up and down on a bed, James McCarthy, 4, was bounced through an open window and fell three stories.

At the hospital it was found he had escaped with a broken leg and bruises.

UNUSUAL SPECTACLE IN CRIMINAL CASE

$35,000 SOUTH ST. PAUL MAIL
ROBBERY IN 1923 IN COURTS

ATTORNEYS REPRESENT MEN
ALLEGED TO HAVE ENGINEERED THE STEAL

St. Paul, April 27.—(UP)—The unparalleled spectacle of attorneys for the defense examining and permitting cross examination of all their witnesses in advance of criminal trial was provided in St. Paul federal court today.

The attorneys represent Frank W. Sommer, Daniel Hogan and George E. Blaul, indicted on charges of engineering the $35,000 South St. Paul mail robbery in 1923. Their trial has been continued to July 3, but their counsel by candid revelations of the defense case hopes to persuade the government to dismiss the action.

Although the extra-legal proceeding is without precedent in federal court history, government prosecutors consented to go through with it and all 50 of the defense witnesses are being heard in court, with spectators and newspapermen barred. No government witnesses will testify.

Trial of the three men was continued late Tuesday after Tommy O'Connor, one of the government's chief witnesses—but not the "Terrible Tommy" of Chicago jail escape notoriety—had given a signed statement to a newspaper, repudiating what he said was his previous testimony before the federal grand jury that returned the indictment.

O'Connor on Sunday deserted two postal inspectors who were "escorting" him from Chicago, leaving the train at Chippewa Falls, Wis., while they were asleep. Twenty-four hours later he was located at Fond du Lac, Wis. He said he had attempted to avoid appearing to testify because his conscience hurt him and he could not go through with the story the government expected him to tell.

The statement he signed later charged that Terry Moran, another government witness, who is serving a sentence in the Leavenworth penitentiary for his part in the mail robbery, "framed" a false case against Sommer, Hogan and Blaul.

Sommer formerly was St. Paul chief of police and is an ex-secret service agent; Hogan is a restaurant owner, and Blaul is Great Western railroad agent at South St. Paul.

SCREEN PLAYER SHOT TO DEATH IN HIS HOME

CALIF.

ACCORDING TO POLICE, CLIMAXES
AN EARLY MORNING
PARTY

Hollywood, Calif., April 27.—(UP)—Tom Kerrick, 32, screen player, was shot to death here today in his home, climaxing an early morning party attended by a group of film extras, according to police.

Iris Burns and Henry Isabell are being sought by police for questioning.

Mrs. Sarah Kerrick, wife of the slain actor, admitted, according to police, that drinks had been served in the home. She was unable to say who shot her husband.

Kerrick's body was found in the dining room. A revolver was recovered from beneath a table, police said.

ASHES OF RUTHENBERG, AMERICAN RADICAL, REST IN THE KREMLIN

Moscow, April 27.—(UP)—The ashes of Charles Ruthenberg, American radical, who died recently at Chicago, rested in the wall of the Kremlin today with the great of Soviet Russia. John Reed, who died in 1920, is the only other American interred in the Kremlin.

Ruthenberg's ashes were placed in the wall yesterday after impressive funeral services. N. Bukharin was the chief pall bearer.

SEEK CAUSE OF DEATHS OF AVIATORS

GIANT BIPLANE OF DAVIS AND AND WOOSTER FAILED TO HOP OFF

RAN AFOUL OF SMALL MARSH
NEAR LANGLEY FIELD,
VIRGINIA

Washington, April 27.—(UP)—Deaths of Lieut. Commander Noel Davis and Lieut. S. H. Wooster today were laid to the impact resulting when their giant biplane, intended to carry them across 3,600 miles of ocean from New York to Paris in a single hop, failed to negotiate a small marsh near Langley field, Va.

A Hampton Roads naval board of inquiry returned the "impact" decision after a long night session in which the bodies were examined and the wreck of the great plane, the "American Legion," was viewed where it lay, cockpit down, in mud and five inches of water.

Previously an official record of "drowning" had been entered here after early reports from the accident yesterday morning indicated the men had been submerged below the shallow waters of the marsh. Injuries to head and shoulders of the aviators indicated, however, that the force of the crash had smashed down upon them huge extra gasoline tanks suspended above them.

The bodies of Davis and Wooster were to be sent here today from Portsmouth, Va., by train. Mrs. Davis, young widow of the flight commander, who was at Langley field when her 36-year-old husband's life was snuffed out, came early and joined her small son who had been kept in ignorance of the tragedy.

STEAMER DAMAGED IN COLLISION WITH OIL BARGE

Philadelphia, Pa., April 27.—(UP)—The steamer Bogota, bound from Kingston, Jamaica, to Philadelphia with six passengers and a cargo of bananas, was slightly damaged in a collision with an oil barge below Reedy island in the Delaware river today. No one was injured.

TITLES ARE OLD STUFF TO MISS POLA NEGRI

Paris, April 27.—(UP)—Titles are old stuff to Pola Negri, and only true romance could lure her into her prospective marriage to Prince Serge Mdivani, she told the United Press.

"Remember, I was a countess years ago," she said. "I am marrying because I can't refuse my persistent wooer."

And why in Paris instead of Hollywood? Tush, tush, ask her a hard one.

"Because Paris in springtime is made for lovers," says the emotional actress.

Miss Negri displayed a silver locket containing Rudolph Valentino's photograph.

"Married or single, I will always keep his memory," she said.

LEAGUE WOMEN VOTERS CONSIDER TOPIC TODAY

DISCUSSION, HOWEVER, TO BE HELD BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

ALL SESSIONS TO BE SECRET, PRESS NOT TO BE ADMITTED

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, April 27.—For the first time, prohibition will come before a national gathering of the League of Women Voters, as part of the program of the national council meeting which opened formally here today.

But the discussion of this subject, as well as the others which will be brought before the women from 45 states, will be behind closed doors. All sessions will be secret, the press not being admitted.

The reason given is that this is a meeting of the council and not a national convention. Conventions of the organization now are held every two years instead of annually as formerly.

The council is to decide whether it will make a study of prohibition, as it does of other national issues. If a study is undertaken, it will be exhaustive.

The league is for law enforcement and its study would be directed toward better methods of enforcing the prohibition law. Prohibition was injected into this meeting by a petition from the Massachusetts league that it be placed on the study program.

In its four day convention here, the league will discuss many other live topics, including foreign relations, "corrupt" legislation and legislation for women and children, including the proposed child labor amendment to the constitution.

Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the league, appealed to the women in her opening address to foster "political education" not only among women, but among citizens generally, declaring that "the laboratory for political educational institution," she said. "We must get a glimpse of what the establishment of political education for all the people would mean in the evolution of democratic life and government."

STARS OF OPERA SURPRISE FRIENDS BY MARRIAGE

Cherbourg, France, April 27.—(UP)—Mary Lewis and Mitchell Bohnen, stars of the Metropolitan opera, New York, who surprised their friends by a sudden wedding before sailing for Europe, locked themselves in their cabin when the S. S. Reliance stopped here today.

The captain said the pair had remained in their cabin the whole trip, appearing neither in the dining salon nor on deck. They intend landing at Hamburg.

STEAMER STRIKES NAPLES BREAKWATER

Naples, April 27.—(UP)—The steamer Colombo, which arrived today from New York, struck the breakwater as it was putting into the harbor, tearing a hole in its hull and allowing water to rush into the hold.

The ship listed heavily to starboard and rowboats and motor boats rushed to take off its passengers. None of those aboard were injured. Tugs towed the liner to a drydock.

The steamer was badly damaged and its entire cargo of naphtha, which was stored in the main hold, was lost.

Ramsey MacDonald Recovers from Illness

Philadelphia, April 27.—(UP)—Ramsey MacDonald, leader of the British Labor party and former prime minister has "virtually recovered" from the sore throat and fever with which he has been confined in the Jefferson hospital for the past five days, according to a statement by Dr. S. Cohen, his physician, this afternoon.

"A few more days to enable him to recover his strength is necessary," Dr. Cohen said, refusing to predict when MacDonald would leave the hospital.

NEW DIRECTORS OF ROTARY CLUB

CLUB TO GO TO ST. CLOUD

Mons Mahlum, Chairman, Stimulates Interest in District Convention

The new board of directors elected at the Rotary meeting are: Dr. George Ribbel, Dr. R. A. Beise, William A. Spencer, E. F. Gates, Walter F. Wieland.

There were no addresses at the meeting. The time was spent in considering ways and means to secure a full attendance of the club at the district Rotary convention in St. Cloud on May 3 and 4. The Brainerd Ladies band has been engaged to play in the parade which will be staged at 1:15 p. m. Wednesday, May 4. Unlike circus and Fourth of July parades, a Rotary parade starts on the dot. The Ladies band will leave Brainerd at 10 a. m. travelling in a bus and returning at night after members have the opportunity to attend the dance. A motion picture of Rotarian ladies is invited to attend the convention, and a committee was named to ascertain how many would go.

Mons Mahlum, chairman of the St. Cloud Convention Committee, was assured of 23 members making the trip from Brainerd. O. A. Peterson announced that parade hats ordered had been received.

A committee, Rotarians Spencer and Beise, was named to mobilize Rotarians and decide on a gathering place and proper car facilities.

President William V. Turcotte was elected a delegate of the club and empowered to name his alternate.

Frank Johnson was named sergeant-at-arms, several meetings ago. His duties include receiving telegrams and other messages and seeing they are delivered to the right parties of the Brainerd delegation.

Walter Cobban, urged every member to attend the district convention.

A. G. Trommald urged attendance at both days of the session and said a round table conference was productive of more, good than six months' attendance at any club.

A Rotary donation for relief of Mississippi flood sufferers was referred to the board of directors who will meet Wednesday afternoon.

$50,000 FACTORY FIRE LOSS AT ST. PAUL

St. Paul, April 27.—(UP)—Fire late Tuesday destroyed a three story factory here with a loss of approximately $50,000.

Firemen concentrated their efforts on preventing spread of the flames to adjoining buildings when it became apparent that the St. Paul Trunk and Bag company manufacturing plant could not be salvaged.

Explosion of oil tanks and the burning of inflammable manufacturing materials caused a spectacular blaze, attracting thousands of persons to the scene.

STRIKING STUDENTS OF SUPERIOR STAGE PARADE

Superior, Wis., April 27.—(UP)—Striking students of Superior schools at a mass meeting Tuesday night voted to stage a monster parade Saturday night through the business section and to the residence of Rev. A. T. Ekblad, president of the Board of Education, to demand his resignation from the board.

The demonstration will be a public showing of the strength of those opposed to the policy of the board which is charged with responsibility for the school strike, now in its fourth week.

It was also suggested at the meeting that prayer meetings be held in all Superior churches asking for "divine aid" in ousting the city superintendent of schools, P. P. Spencer.

Firemen concentrated their efforts on preventing spread of the flames to adjoining buildings when it became apparent that the St. Paul Trunk and Bag company manufacturing plant could not be salvaged.

Explosion of oil tanks and the burning of inflammable manufacturing materials caused a spectacular blaze, attracting thousands of persons to the scene.

St. Paul, April 27.—(UP)—Fire late Tuesday destroyed a three story factory here with a loss of approximately $50,000.

NEW DIRECTORS OF ROTARY CLUB

Dr. Ribbel, Dr. Beise, Wm. Spencer, E. F. Gates and Walter F. Wieland

CLUB TO GO TO ST. CLOUD

Mons Mahlum, Chairman, Stimulates Interest in District Convention

The new board of directors elected at the Rotary meeting are: Dr. George Ribbel, Dr. R. A. Beise, William A. Spencer, E. F. Gates, Walter F. Wieland.

There were no addresses at the meeting. The time was spent in considering ways and means to secure a full attendance of the club at the district Rotary convention in St. Cloud on May 3 and 4. The Brainerd Ladies band has been engaged to play in the parade which will be staged at 1:15 p. m. Wednesday, May 4. Unlike circus and Fourth of July parades, a Rotary parade starts on the spot. The Ladies band will leave Brainerd at 10 a. m. travelling in a bus and returning at night after members have the opportunity to attend the dance. A motion carried that Rotarian ladies be invited to attend the convention, and a committee was named to ascertain how many would go.

Mons Mahlum, chairman of the St. Cloud Convention Committee, was assured of 23 members making the trip from Brainerd. O. A. Peterson announced that parade hats ordered had been received.

A committee, Rotarians Spencer and Beise, was named to mobilize Rotarians and decide on a gathering place and proper car facilities.

President William V. Turcotte was elected a delegate of the club and empowered to name his alternate.

Frank Johnson was named sergeant-at-arms, several meetings ago. His duties include receiving telegrams and other messages and seeing they are delivered to the right parties of the Brainerd delegation.

Walter Cobban, urged every member to attend the district convention.

A. G. Trommald urged attendance at both days of the session and said a round table conference was productive of more, good than six months' attendance at any club.

A Rotary donation for relief of Mississippi flood sufferers was referred to the board of directors who will meet Wednesday afternoon.

STRIKING STUDENTS OF SUPERIOR STAGE PARADE

Superior, Wis., April 27.—(UP)—Striking students of Superior schools at a mass meeting Tuesday night voted to stage a monster parade Saturday night through the business section and to the residence of Rev. A. T. Ekblad, president of the Board of Education, to demand his resignation from the board.

The demonstration will be a public showing of the strength of those opposed to the policy of the board which is charged with responsibility for the school strike, now in its fourth week.

It was also suggested at the meeting that prayer meetings be held in all Superior churches asking for "divine aid" in ousting the city superintendent of schools, P. P. Spencer.

A Poser

"My mother told me with today."

"Is that unusual?"

"Bliss—No, but this was a knock."

"Gave him a penny and he asked me to please tell him just what he could do with a penny, and I had to give him a quarter to sidestep the answer."

Diplomacy

Assistant Editor—Here's a woman who says she's been a reader of our paper for ten years, asking, "What are the most worthless men yet?"

Editor—Tell her to ask her husband. That will flatter her so she'll be good for another ten years.

On the Witness Stand

"Madam, you saw this man coming up the cellar stairs?"

"Yes."

"What happened?"

"He told me not to scream."

"What next?"

"I screamed."—Louisville Courier Journal.

Poor Fellows

Beggar—Could you give me a quarter for a meal, sir?

Victim—If you're so hard up why don't you sell that diamond ring you're wearing?

Beggar—Oh, I can't, sir. It belongs to my chauffeur.

External Remedy

Indulgent Mother—Helen seems languid and disinclined to do anything. Her system needs toning up; I shall give her some iron.

Father—Good idea! Give her the flatiron.

Much Condensing Needed

Mrs. Suburbia, displaying the new receiving set to admiring friends: "It works like this, my dear. The aerial picks up the radio music, and it comes down inside the set, where some funny little things keep on condensing it and condensing it until the noise is small enough to work the loud speaker."—News of the World, London.

STRUCTURAL INSULATION

MASONITE in your walls, floors, ceilings and roof brings year 'round comfort indoors.

This superior insulation replaces other materials, strengthens the structure, resists moisture and keeps heat where it belongs. However you use it, Masonite insulates—protects you from the invasion of summer heat; prevents the escape of costly heat in winter.

Any building insulated with Masonite is worth more money, and will continue to be worth more money as long as the building stands.

"On what grounds did she sue for divorce?"

"Cruelty. Her husband compelled her to use a 1925 car."

Pointed and Headed

"I can't find a single pin! Where do they all go to, anyway?"

"It's hard to tell, because they're pointed in one direction and they're headed in another."

Throw That One Out

Bill—Every time I look at you I have thoughts of revenge.

Mae—Oh, why?

Bill—Revenge is sweet, you know.

Relics of Waterloo

Every year in June as the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo comes around, a Waterloo banquet is held at Apsley house in London, the magnificent home of the Wellingtons, which was presented to the first duke by the nation in 1820. Many priceless heirlooms, trophies presented to the great soldier-statesman, are always brought out for the Waterloo banquet. Perhaps the most carefully treasured of all these relics are some artificial flowers, now rather faded, which were among the decorations at the historic ball at Brussels the night before the battle.

"Cherub" Had Own Idea of Grandpa's Thoughts

A young mother paid a visit to the cemetery to lay a small floral offering upon the grave of her father-in-law. She took with her on this occasion her four-year-old son, who is angelic of countenance but never misses a trick, and registers everything he hears, including swear words.

Passing another family plot where the resting place of a leading citizen was entirely covered with fresh blossoms, the four-year-old demanded to know who it was.

"Why, that is Jack's grandpa," answered the mother.

The small boy waited a moment and then asked: "Do you know what my grandpa would say if he came back?"

"Why, yes," was the cautious response of the young mother, but inwardly quaking. "He would say, 'How is my little grandson today?'"

The golden-haired cherub looking his mother in the eye, replied: "No, mother, grandpa would say, 'Where in — are all MY flowers?'"—Los Angeles Times.

"Nordic Theory" Based on Race Superiority

The word "Nordic" is derived from "nord," Scandinavian for north. It was applied by Joseph Deniker, the French anthropologist, to a race of tall, blond people who once inhabited Scandinavia, Scotland and northern England. The ancient Goths, for instance, were Nordics. They are supposed to have been the most highly developed branch of the white race and differed more from the yellow, brown, red and black races than did any other branch of the white race. Some scholars believe that traces of the original Nordic language survive in such English words as "wife" and "house," which are not found in Indo-European languages outside the Germanic group. Popularly the word "Nordic" has been extended to all the Germanic or Teutonic peoples. According to the so-called Nordic theory, people of Nordic descent are superior biologically to all other races.—Pathfinder Magazine

Queen of Flowers

If asked to name the queen of flowers, the average person would probably vote for the rose. The botanist, however, would do no such thing.

To the botanist the stamens and pistils are the real flower. The petals are only the flower's clothes, and the make-up of the rose and all her family shows an early stage in flower development.

The real queen of the flowers is the daisy. In the daisy the botanist finds the stages of development of all the other flowers in the seedman's catalogue. There are about 250 flowers in or forests on each daisy. Even the white or pink-tipped rays are not petals but whole flowers, and the yellow boss of the shield consists of many other perfect little flowers, each making seed.

Coin Designers Honored

The custom of placing the signature of the engraver upon a coin dates from remote antiquity. Mazy Greek coins, especially the splendid creations produced by the cities of Sicily and Magna Graecia, are signed with the initials of the artist, and in some cases with his full name. The same practice has prevailed generally in European countries. On the coins of the United States but few signatures occur. There was none until the double eagle appeared in 1849, when the signature of Longacre, J. B. L., was placed on the truncation of the bust.

Consider All Sides

It is well to consider, before walking along the railroad track, that while the engineer's intentions may be good, the locomotive's aim is also good.—Louisville Times.

A Word With the Old Folks

Elderly People Are Learning Importance of Good Elimination.

IN the later years of life there is apt to be a slowing up of the bodily functions. Good elimination, however, is just as essential to the old as to the young. Many old folks have learned the value of Doan's Pills when a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys is required. Scanty or burning passages of kidney secretions are often signs of improper kidney function. In most every community are scores of users and endorsers who acclaim the merit of Doan's. Relics of Waterloo

Every year in June as the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo comes around, a Waterloo banquet is held at Apsley house in London, the magnificent home of the Wellingtons, which was presented to the first duke by the nation in 1820. Many priceless heirlooms, trophies presented to the great soldier-statesman, are always brought out for the Waterloo banquet. Perhaps the most carefully treasured of all these relics are some artificial flowers, now rather faded, which were among the decorations at the historic ball at Brussels the night before the battle.

"Cherub" Had Own Idea of Grandpa's Thoughts

A young mother paid a visit to the cemetery to lay a small floral offering upon the grave of her father-in-law. She took with her on this occasion her four-year-old son, who is angelic of countenance but never misses a trick, and registers everything he hears, including swear words.

Passing another family plot where the resting place of a leading citizen was entirely covered with fresh blossoms, the four-year-old demanded to know who it was.

"Why, that is Jack's grandpa," answered the mother.

The small boy waited a moment and then asked: "Do you know what my grandpa would say if he came back?"

"Why, yes," was the cautious response of the young mother, but inwardly quaking. "He would say, 'How is my little grandson today?'"

The golden-haired cherub looking his mother in the eye, replied: "No, mother, grandpa would say, 'Where in— are all MY flowers?'"—Los Angeles Times.

"Nordic Theory" Based on Race Superiority

The word "Nordic" is derived from "nord," Scandinavian for north. It was applied by Joseph Deniker, the French anthropologist, to a race of tall, blond people who once inhabited Scandinavia, Scotland and northern England. The ancient Goths, for instance, were Nordics. They are supposed to have been the most highly developed branch of the white race and differed more from the yellow, brown, red and black races than did any other branch of the white race. Some scholars believe that traces of the original Nordic language survive in such English words as "wife" and "house," which are not found in Indo-European languages outside the Germanic group. Popularly the word "Nordic" has been extended to all the Germanic or Teutonic peoples. According to the so-called Nordic theory, people of Nordic descent are superior biologically to all other races.—Pathfinder Magazine

Queen of Flowers

If asked to name the queen of flowers, the average person would probably vote for the rose. The botanist, however, would do no such thing.

To the botanist the daisy and the pansy are the real flowers. The petals are only the flower's clothes, and the make-up of the rose and all her family shows an early stage in flower development.

The real queen of the flowers is the daisy. In the daisy the botanist finds the stages of development of all the other flowers in the seedman's catalogue. There are about 250 flowers in or forests on each daisy. Even the white or pink-tipped rays are not petals but whole flowers, and the yellow boss of the shield consists of many other perfect little flowers, each making seed.

Coin Designers Honored

The custom of placing the signature of the engraver upon a coin dates from remote antiquity. Many Greek coins, especially the splendid creations produced by the cities of Sicily and Magna Graecia, are signed with the initials of the artist, and in some cases with his full name. The same practice has prevailed generally in European countries. On the coins of the United States but few signatures occur. There was none until the double eagle appeared in 1849, when the signature of Longacre, J. B. L., was placed on the truncation of the bust.

A Word With the Old Folks

Elderly People Are Learning Importance of Good Elimination.

IN the later years of life there is apt to be a slowing up of the bodily functions. Good elimination, however, is just as essential to the old as to the young. Many old folks have learned the value of Doan's Pills when a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys is required. Scanty or burning passages of kidney secretions are often signs of improper kidney function. In most every community are scores of users and endorsers who acclaim the merit of Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Its tremendous popularity is evidence that the Chrysler "60" offers a type of performance so utterly different as to stamp it unique in its field and at its price.

The public has enthusiastically preferred its outstanding qualities of dash and vigor and aliveness and riding comfort—and while this success was early assured, it was never for an instant expected to assume the startling proportions of Chrysler "60" sales today.

Drive the Chrysler "60" yourself and you'll instantly appreciate the unique character of its performance.

You'll realize then why public preference of its smooth 60-mile-an-hour performance, its economy, its easy steering, its smooth riding and its safety, has played such an important part in raising Chrysler from 27th to 4th place in three years.

"WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH OUR YOUNG PEOPLE?"

"WHAT'S the Matter With Our Young People?" is the title of an article in the current Rotary magazine, written by Thomas Arkle Clark, dean of men of the University of Illinois.

He is dean of one of the largest state universities in America, tells the outward difference between the new generation and the old, and wherein their moral standards differ. He answers recent charges that the present-day youth as a rule is reckless, unreliable, and irresponsible. For what laxity does exist, he definitely places the blame.

Here is a pertinent truth enunciated by Mr. Clark.

"No generation has ever seemed conventional or self-controlled by the previous one."

Here is what the young people of a former day had in the way of amusements:

"We had no telephones, no electric lights, no automobiles. There wasn't a paved street in town. We studied by kerosene lamps in rooms heated with little soft-coal stoves, and if there was a bath-tub in town excepting the one in Terbusch's barber-shop where we paid twenty-five cents for the privilege of cleaning up, I never knew about it.

"Our pleasures were as simple as our ways of living. There were no moving-picture shows, no vaudeville, no ice-cream parlors, and no dance-halls. There were about two dances a year, one at Thanksgiving time and the other at Commencement, at which time the local opera-house had some sort of shaky improvised floor run out from the stage over the seats in the dress circle. We didn't spend much money, because we did not have much, and our parents lived as simply as we did.

"It is said that young people were more religious than than now—that they went to church more generally and more regularly. Possibly they went more regularly, for the church when I was young was a general meeting-place. Young people went to church for social reasons then far more than they do now.

"It is not necessary in these days, for social activities are far more general than they were thirty years ago, and it is no longer necessary for a young fellow to go to church to meet the girl he is in love with. He can call her up over the telephone, or tear down the concrete road in his flivver and meet her within a few minutes even if she lives several miles away, and besides there is a moving-picture house on every street corner where he can talk to her under a subdued light while a stirring drama is enacted before them.

"We were trained to work hard forty years ago, and the young had their part in the work as well as the old. We went through a good many hardships and are what we are largely because we overcame these difficulties. We got up early at our house and were out in the field, chores done and breakfast finished, by six o'clock; but I've seen Joe White, our neighbor, a half mile away, resting on his plow-beam at five in the morning. He got up earlier than we did. We were not so well nor so widely trained on entrance to college then as our children now; our teachers were not so efficient, inefficient as many teachers still are; but we were earnest, we were not afraid of study, we very much wanted an education and many made cruel sacrifices to attain that end, as some still do today.

"The education of young people today is very different from what it was when we were young, and in a gratifying number of cases it has stimulated them to think for themselves, and in thinking for themselves they have sometime questioned the old theories and the old standards. They are not throwing them over in a good many cases; they are simply proving them, and where these theories and these standards have a solid foundation, they will stand.

"The young person of today is more resourceful than any other young person whom I have ever known. He can do anything that he wants to do and can do it better than any of his predecessors. Challenge him, and he will meet your challenge with a success that is almost unbelievable. I said that he can do anything that he wants to do. The chief difficulty is to get him to the point of wanting to do something.

"Our young people today are different from what we were, but we, too, have changed, and they are like no one so much as like their parents. We who are older live more comfortably than we did when we were boys and girls, and in general more luxuriously. We travel faster and farther and in greater elegance. We dress better, we live in larger and better-appointed houses than we once did, and in a certain sense we make fewer sacrifices; and all these changes in ourselves and in our environment have had their effect upon our young people. If there is anything in particular the matter with our young people, parents, more than anyone else and more than anything else, are responsible. Children respond to their training in an amazing manner; they take on habits very early which dominate them throughout life. By the time they are twelve or fifteen the path they are going to follow has been pretty well marked out for them, and parents and the home are most largely responsible for this choice."

In summarizing his conclusions, Mr. Clark says:

"There is nothing the matter with our young people. Where they have had the discipline of home and have been taught to work and rely upon themselves, where they have been grounded in the principles of love and sacrifice as many of them still have, they are the most wonderful young people in the world and they are going to do great things far beyond what we have been able to do.

"The trouble, where there is trouble, is largely with the parents who coddle their children and make their life too soft and easy. There are too many coonskin coats and flashy-looking run-arounds. There are too many extravagant allowances and too many formal parties when the young people go to them should be playing children's games or at home in bed. Too many young people are not taught to work or do their best at whatever they undertake. Parents are quite satisfied when their children accomplish the commonplace.

"Our young people as a whole are judged, too, quite commonly by the escapades and the derelictions of the few. In general I have found that from eighty to ninety per cent of the young people with whom I have to do are conscientious and hard working and anxious to do well. It is the minority of ten per cent who have stirred up comment and made themselves notorious by their irregularities, and for these things foolish, indulgent parents are most largely responsible."

ASSUMING, says the Bemidji Daily Pioneer, that the more difficult anything is to run, the more one should pay for running it, some of the newspapers are asking why a marriage licenses costs less than an auto license.

Sets a New Standard

A motorist who has been using Red Crown-Ethyl and Iso=Vis motor oil, says that he never knew such "perfect service" could be obtained. Actual use—that's the best test of any product. In actual use Iso=Vis exceeds all expectations! Iso=Vis sets a new standard!

Thousands of motorists have taken the time and trouble to write us enthusiastic letters like the one below, telling how Iso=Vis has proved itself in actual use.

South Side Lumber Company
F. A. Hoppert, Prop.
3011 South Adams Street
Peoria, Illinois

February 2, 1927

"Mr. H. C. Griffin, Manager,
Standard Oil Company (Indiana)
Peoria, Illinois

"Dear Sir:

"A car operator hears a great deal about the merits of various oils and gasolines, but the final analysis is the actual results obtained.

"My Buick car is now being operated on Red Crown-Ethyl Gasoline and lubricated by Iso=Vis Motor Oil, and I will frankly say that I never knew such perfect service could be obtained until I changed to these two products, which you have produced.

"I like to pass on good things to the other fellow—so I am writing you this letter to express my appreciation and to permit you to pass this message on to other owners of Buick cars.

"I have had easy starting at all times, even under most severe conditions, and my oil gauge maintains even pressure at all speeds.

Yours truly,
Frank A. Hoppert."

This letter tells something of the amazing efficiency of Iso=Vis. Iso=Vis gives thorough and complete lubrication every day in the year—every mile of every trip—all the time!

Iso=Vis has astonished the motoring world. It is a revolutionary motor oil. Oil of the past thinned out. Iso=Vis maintains a constant viscosity—constant efficiency—from start to finish. Try Iso=Vis once—and you'll understand its enormous popularity! Consult Chart for Correct Grade for Summer. 30c per quart—a little more per quart—less per mile.

you press a button

Or perhaps a switch, or some little gadget, and a lot of things happen around a home that lighten labor and banish trouble.

A whirling fan brings a cooling breeze, and a little copper, dish-like affair throws out a sizzling blast that warms the room in no time.

Another button boils coffee, toasts bread and cooks waffles. Another does a better job than a broom. Another makes a happy laundress out of a dismal washwoman. Another one cools the ice-box. Another—but why go on?

Labor and time saving devices have come and are today within the reach of the humblest home.

And one of the chief reasons why they have come and why they are within the reach of the humblest home is the power of advertising.

Advertising has carried the news of these better ways of doing things to every home. It has created a desire to possess them, and countless thousands have purchased them, and live better because of them.

Reading advertising not only tells you about new, helpful mechanical devices for the home, but it is an unfailing guide to reliable products.

He got up earlier than we did. We were not so well nor so widely trained on entrance to college then as our children now; our teachers were not so efficient, inefficient as many teachers still are; but we were earnest, we were not afraid of study, we very much wanted an education and many made cruel sacrifices to attain that end, as some still do today.

"The education of young people today is very different from what it was when we were young, and in a gratifying number of cases it has stimulated them to think for themselves, and in thinking for themselves they have sometime questioned the old theories and the old standards. They are not throwing them over in a good many cases; they are simply proving them, and where these theories and these standards have a solid foundation, they will stand.

"The young person of today is more resourceful than any other young person whom I have ever known. He can do anything that he wants to do and can do it better than any of his predecessors. Challenge him, and he will meet your challenge with a success that is almost unbelievable. I said that he can do anything that he wants to do. The chief difficulty is to get him to the point of wanting to do something.

"Our young people today are different from what we were, but we, too, have changed, and they are like no one so much as like their parents. We who are older live more comfortably than we did when we were boys and girls, and in general more luxuriously. We travel faster and farther and in greater elegance. We dress better, we live in larger and better-appointed houses than we once did, and in a certain sense we make fewer sacrifices; and all these changes in ourselves and in our environment have had their effect upon our young people. If there is anything in particular the matter with our young people, parents, more than anyone else and more than anything else, are responsible. Children respond to their training in an amazing manner; they take on habits very early which dominate them throughout life. By the time they are twelve or fifteen the path they are going to follow has been pretty well marked out for them, and parents and the home are most largely responsible for this choice."

In summarizing his conclusions, Mr. Clark says:

"There is nothing the matter with our young people. Where they have had the discipline of home and have been taught to work and rely upon themselves, where they have been grounded in the principles of love and sacrifice as many of them still have, they are the most wonderful young people in the world and they are going to do great things far beyond what we have been able to do.

"The trouble, where there is trouble, is largely with the parents who coddle their children and make their life too soft and easy. There are too many coonskin coats and flashy-looking runabouts. There are too many extravagant allowances and too many formal parties when the young people go to them should be playing children's games or at home in bed. Too many young people are not taught to work or do their best at whatever they undertake. Parents are quite satisfied when their children accomplish the commonplace.

"Our young people as a whole are judged, too, quite commonly by the escapades and the derelictions of the few. In general I have found that from eighty to ninety per cent of the young people with whom I have to do are conscientious and hard working and anxious to do well. It is the minority of ten per cent who have stirred up comment and made themselves notorious by their irregularities, and for these things foolish, indulgent parents are most largely responsible."

ASSUMING, says the Bemidji Daily Pioneer, that the more difficult anything is to run, the more one should pay for running it, some of the newspapers are asking why a marriage license costs less than an auto license.

Sets a New Standard

A motorist who has been using Red Crown-Ethyl and Iso=Vis motor oil, says that he never knew such "perfect service" could be obtained. Actual use—that's the best test of any product. In actual use Iso=Vis exceeds all expectations! Iso=Vis sets a new standard!

Thousands of motorists have taken the time and trouble to write us enthusiastic letters like the one below, telling how Iso=Vis has proved itself in actual use.

South Side Lumber Company
F. A. Hoppert, Prop.
3011 South Adams Street
Peoria, Illinois

February 2, 1927

"Mr. H. C. Griffin, Manager,
Standard Oil Company (Indiana)
Peoria, Illinois

"Dear Sir:

"A car operator hears a great deal about the merits of various oils and gasolines, but the final analysis is the actual results obtained.

"My Buick car is now being operated on Red Crown-Ethyl Gasoline and lubricated by Iso=Vis Motor Oil, and I will frankly say that I never knew such perfect service could be obtained until I changed to these two products, which you have produced.

"I like to pass on good things to the other fellow—so I am writing you this letter to express my appreciation and to permit you to pass this message on to other owners of Buick cars.

"I have had easy starting at all times, even under most severe conditions, and my oil gauge maintains even pressure at all speeds.

Yours truly,
Frank A. Hoppert."

This letter tells something of the amazing efficiency of Iso=Vis. Iso=Vis gives thorough and complete lubrication every day in the year—every mile of every trip—all the time!

Iso=Vis has astonished the motoring world. It is a revolutionary motor oil. Oil of the past thinned out. Iso=Vis maintains a constant viscosity—constant efficiency—from start to finish. Try Iso=Vis once—and you'll understand its enormous popularity! Consult Chart for Correct Grade for Summer. 30c per quart—a little more per quart—less per mile.

Nowadays . . .
you press a button

Or perhaps a switch, or some little gadget, and a lot of things happen around a home that lighten labor and banish trouble.

A whirling fan brings a cooling breeze, and a little copper, dish-like affair throws out a sizzling blast that warms the room in no time.

Another button boils coffee, toasts bread and cooks waffles. Another does a better job than a broom. Another makes a happy laundress out of a dismal washwoman. Another one cools the ice-box. Another—but why go on?

Labor and time saving devices have come and are today within the reach of the humblest home.

And one of the chief reasons why they have come and why they are within the reach of the humblest home is the power of advertising.

Advertising has carried the news of these better ways of doing things to every home. It has created a desire to possess them, and countless thousands have purchased them, and live better because of them.

SOMETHING IS WRONG WITH RUTH

NEW YORK GETS PESSIMISTIC
OVER THE GREAT
BAMBINO

LATTER HAS ONLY SOCKED OUT
THREE HOME RUNS,
BATTING .273

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, April 27.—Because he has connected only three times for four-base hits and is batting only about .273, New York is beginning to believe something is wrong with Babe Ruth.

Speculation also has arisen over what Col. Jake Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, is thinking about the wisdom of investing $210,000 in Ruth.
When the Colonel took his Babe up to his brewery and signed him for three years at $70,000 per year, his baseball sagacity was questioned by some of the other magnates. They regarded it as bad policy to let an employee know he is sure of his job for more than one year. In the particular case of the Babe and the Yankees it was pointed out that the Babe had one of his greatest years last season when he was under the threat of either delivering as a $52,000 a year laborer or taking a cut in salary on a new contract.

The baseball acumen of Col. Ruppert and his former partner, Colonel Huston, was questioned when they bought the Yankees years ago. At the time the property of the club included a lot of soiled uniforms and not so many players to fit into them.

Then they paid $100,000 or more for the Babe.
The rest of the Colonel's wisdom in buying the Babe and a lot of other ball players is shown up in the Bronx, where a $3,000,000 stadium is standing and where carpenters are getting ready to build seats that will increase the capacity of the stands to 80,000 or 85,000.

But getting back to the Babe and his slim batting average—the Babe likes his base hits and those who know him know that he is fretting but there is nothing wrong with him. You can take his word for it and the word of Christy Walsh, his Boswell.

"The Babe is just full of a spring cold," Walsh said today. "He had a little indigestion before the first game of the season and he should not have played, but he has his public to think of and he played. He'll be hitting soon."

The Babe refused to be quoted.
"What's the matter?" he will ask you. "The season's only starting and I'll get going soon. This stuff about those Kleig lights hurting my eyes is a lot of bunk. There's nothing wrong with me. Maybe the pitching is better than you think it is."

The Babe, incidentally, is acting as the host to 500 sports writers and visiting editors tonight at the Friars club, where his new picture will be shown for the first time.

Des Moines, Ia.—Emil Morrow, Des Moines, and Buddy MacDonald, St. Paul, fought ten rounds to a draw.
Merle Douglas, Albia, Ia., defeated Bud Taylor, Perry, Ia., on points in six rounds.

St. Paul, Minn.—King Tut, Minneapolis, lightweight, defeated Mike Ballerino, New York, in a ten round decision bout. My Sullivan, St. Paul welterweight, won over Billy Hall, Chicago, in ten rounds.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Frankie (Kid) Anselm, Philadelphia, defeated Dave Adelman, Philadelphia. They are bantams.

ENDS GAME BY AN UNASSISTED
DOUBLE PLAY AFTER MIR-ACULOUS CATCH

(By United Press)
Yesterday's hero—Ty Cobb whose spectacular base running and fielding enabled the Athletics to come from behind and defeat Boston, 9 to 8. Ty stole home to score one of his two runs, made three hits to drive in two other runs and then ended the game by an unassisted double play, when he made a miraculous catch of Todd's fly and ran in to double Jacobson off first base.
Lee Meadows pitched his fourth straight victory of the season as Pittsburgh won from St. Louis, 9 to 5. The Pirates knocked Sherdel out of the box in the third inning. By virtue of their victory they are tied with New York for leadership of the National League.

The victory of the Giants was over Brooklyn, 7 to 2. Fred Fitzsimmons pitched well for New York, and Bill Terry assisted with a home run, a double and a sacrifice fly.
The Cincinnati Reds came from behind again to win over Chicago, 8 to 5. A sixth inning rampage netted six runs and sent Jones, Cubs pitcher, to the dugout. Webb, pinch hitting for English in the ninth hit a home run.

Will Hudlin, Cleveland hurler, allowed St. Louis but five hits, and the Indians won, 6 to 2.

The Chicago White Sox were hitting well and converted 14 hits into nine runs to defeat Detroit, 9 to 3. Lyons went the route for the Sox while Moriarity used four pitchers in a vain effort to stop the Chicago batters. Hunsfield hit safely four times in as many trips to the plate.

The Washington-New York American League game and the Boston-Philadelphia National League contest were postponed.

Toledo — Minneapolis dropped a hard fought game to Toledo in the fifteenth inning, 7 to 6. It was the Millers' third straight defeat by Toledo after starting the season with a run of eight victories.

Columbus—St. Paul went into a tie for first place in the American Association by winning again from Columbus, 11 to 4.

Indianapolis, Ind. — Indianapolis won its third straight from Milwaukee, 8 to 3.

Louisville, Ky.—Kansas City took an 11 inning battle from Louisville, 5 to 4.

FAST SCRAPDOCK MEN WIN AGAIN, BEAT PENNEY 16-10

SCORE IN 5TH INNING WAS 9 TO 6 AGAINST SCRAP-
DOCKERS

THEN WERNER BLEW UP AND STARTED WALKING A BUNCH

The fast Scrapdock kittenball team scored another victory at the water tower grounds last night, taking the J. C. Penney men into camp, 16-10, in a seven-inning match.

When the shop boys came to bat in the fifth the score stood 9 to 6 against them. Then Werner, on the mound for the clothiers, started walking them and they added five counters to their string in the fifth stanza and five more in the sixth, while the clothing team was held scoreless. In the seventh the Penney boys brought in another score, making the tally 16-10 against them.

The hero of the fray was E. Anderson, who rapped out three homers for the shop team. M. Anderson and Patterson each scored three runs.

For the clothiers Olsen was responsible for a total of three runs while Werner brought home two.

SCRAPDOCK TO MEET STOREROOM

HARD SLUGGERS TO CLASH WITH UNDEFEATED STOREROOM TEAM

Perhaps one of the most interesting events in the local world of sports will be staged this evening at 6:15 o'clock when the hard slugging Scrapdock Kittenball team meets the undefeated Store Room kittenball team at the water tower grounds.

Batteries for the Scrap Dock team are John Van Epps, the Northern giant, and Stub Anderson, the midget. John in the pitcher's box 'throws a kittenball that even a veteran cat can hardly see.

Batteries for the Storeroom department team are Kent Whitlock and Tribur. Kent passes an underhand ball which keeps the batter ducking and dodging. However, the last moment it curves gracefully over the plate and is called a strike.

From a standpoint of action, this game will be a treat to all kittenball fans and even those who do not understand the game. It has been noised around that a purse of considerable proportion has been placed on the game.

SIDES

The Firemen suffered defeat at the hands of the storeroom kittenball team last evening at Koering Field, the score being 6-5.

Elmer Franson, replacing J. Avery in the pitcher's box, did some fine work for the firemen, who, though defeated, feel they made a good showing in the game.

The game was characterized by home runs on either side, Bacon and Tribur scoring the homers for the Storeroom team. Whitlock did the mound work for the shop boys. Five innings were played.

This match had been originally scheduled for April 15 but was postponed on account of cold weather.

SOMETHING IS WRONG WITH RUTH

NEW YORK GETS PESSIMISTIC OVER THE GREAT BAMBINO

LATTER HAS ONLY SOCKED OUT THREE HOME RUNS, BATTING .273

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, April 27.—Because he has connected only three times for four-base hits and is batting only about .273, New York is beginning to believe something is wrong with Babe Ruth.

Speculation also has arisen over what Col. Jake Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, is thinking about the wisdom of investing $210,000 in Ruth.

When the Colonel took his Babe up to his brewery and signed him for three years at $70,000 per year, his baseball sagacity was questioned by some of the other magnates. They regarded it as bad policy to let an employee know he is sure of his job for more than one year. In the particular case of the Babe and the Yankees it was pointed out that the Babe had one of his greatest years last season when he was under the threat of either delivering a $52,000 a year laborer or taking a cut in salary on a new contract.

The baseball acumen of Col. Ruppert and his former partner, Colonel Huston, was questioned when they bought the Yankees years ago. At the time the property of the club included a lot of soiled uniforms and not so many players to fit into them. Then they paid $100,000 or more for the Babe.

The rest of the Colonel's wisdom in buying the Babe and a lot of other ball players is shown up in the Bronx, where a $3,000,000 stadium is standing and where carpenters are getting ready to build seats that will increase the capacity of the stands to 80,000 or 85,000.

But getting back to the Babe and his slim batting average—the Babe likes his base hits and those who know him know that he is fretting but there is nothing wrong with him. You can take his word for it and the word of Christy Walsh, his Boswell.

"The Babe is just full of a spring cold," Walsh said today. "He had a little indigestion before the first game of the season and he should not have played, but he has his public to think of and he played. He'll be hitting soon."

The Babe refused to be quoted. "What's the matter?" he will ask you. "The season's only starting and I'll get going soon. This stuff about those Kleig lights hurting my eyes is a lot of bunk. There's nothing wrong with me. Maybe the pitching is better than you think it is."

The Babe, incidentally, is acting as the host to 500 sports writers and visiting editors tonight at the Friars club, where his new picture will be shown for the first time.

Des Moines, Ia.—Emil Morrow, Des Moines, and Buddy MacDonald, St. Paul, fought ten rounds to a draw. Merle Douglas, Albia, Ia., defeated Bud Taylor, Perry, Ia., on points in six rounds.

St. Paul, Minn.—King Tut, Minneapolis, lightweight, defeated Mike Ballerino, New York, in a ten round decision bout. My Sullivan, St. Paul welterweight, won over Billy Hall, Chicago, in ten rounds.

HELPS ATHLETICS

DEFEAT BOSTON, SCORE WAS 9 TO 8

MADE TWO RUNS, THREE HITS, DROVE IN TWO OTHER RUNS

ENDS GAME BY AN UNASSISTED DOUBLE PLAY AFTER MIRACULOUS CATCH

(By United Press)

Yesterday's hero—Ty Cobb whose spectacular base running and fielding enabled the Athletics to come from behind and defeat Boston, 9 to 8. Ty stole home to score one of his two runs, made three hits to drive in two other runs and then ended the game by an unassisted double play, when he made a miraculous catch of Todt's fly and ran in to double Jacobson off first base.

Lee Meadows pitched his fourth straight victory of the season as Pittsburgh won from St. Louis, 9 to 5. The Pirates knocked Sherdel out of the box in the third inning. By virtue of their victory they are tied with New York for leadership of the National League.

The victory of the Giants was over Brooklyn, 7 to 2. Fred Fitzsimmons pitched well for New York, and Bill Terry assisted with a home run, a double and a sacrifice fly.

The Cincinnati Reds came from behind again to win over Chicago, 8 to 5. A sixth inning rampage netted six runs and sent Jones, Cubs pitcher, to the dugout. Webb, pinch hitting for English in the ninth hit a home run.

Will Hudlin, Cleveland hurler, allowed St. Louis but five hits, and the Indians won, 6 to 2.

The Chicago White Sox were hitting well and converted 14 hits into nine runs to defeat Detroit, 9 to 3. Lyons went the route for the Sox while Moriarty used four pitchers in a vain effort to stop the Chicago batters. Hunnefeld hit safely four times in as many trips to the plate.

The Washington-New York American League game and the Boston-Philadelphia National League contest were postponed.

Toledo — Minneapolis dropped a hard fought game to Toledo in the fifteenth inning, 7 to 6. It was the Millers' third straight defeat by Toledo after starting the season with a run of eight victories.

Columbus—St. Paul went into a tie for first place in the American Association by winning again from Columbus, 11 to 4.

Indianapolis, Ind. — Indianapolis won its third straight from Milwaukee, 8 to 3.

Louisville, Ky.—Kansas City took an 11 inning battle from Louisville, 5 to 4.

Hornsby went hitless in three efforts.

Ty Cobb's double and two singles out of four times up were instrumental in the Athletics' 9 to 8 victory over the Red Sox.

FAST SCRAPDOCK MEN WIN AGAIN, BEAT PENNEY 16-10

SCORE IN 5TH INNING WAS 9 TO 6 AGAINST SCRAPDOCKERS

THEN WERNER BLEW UP AND STARTED WALKING A BUNCH

The fast Scrapdock kittenball team scored another victory at the water tower grounds last night, taking the J. C. Penney men into camp, 16-10, in a seven-inning match.

When the shop boys came to bat in the fifth the score stood 9 to 6 against them. Then Werner, on the mound for the clothiers, started walking them and they added five counters to their string in the fifth stanza and five more in the sixth, while the clothing team was held scoreless. In the seventh the Penney boys brought in another score, making the tally 16-10 against them.

The hero of the fray was E. Anderson, who rapped out three homers for the shop team. M. Anderson and Patterson each scored three runs.

For the clothiers Olsen was responsible for a total of three runs while Werner brought home two.

SCRAPDOCK TO MEET STOREROOM

HARD SLUGGERS TO CLASH WITH UNDEFEATED STOREROOM TEAM

Perhaps one of the most interesting events in the local world of sports will be staged this evening at 6:15 o'clock when the hard slugging Scrapdock kittenball team meets the undefeated Store Room kittenball team at the water tower grounds.

Batteries for the Scrap Dock team are John Van Epps, the Northern giant, and Stub Anderson, the midget. John in the pitcher's box throws a kittenball that even a veteran cat can hardly see.

Batteries for the Storeroom department team are Kent Whitlock and Tribur. Kent passes an underhand ball which keeps the batter ducking and dodging. However, the last moment it curves gracefully over the plate and is called a strike.

From a standpoint of action, this game will be a treat to all kittenball fans and even those who do not understand the game. It has been noised around that a purse of considerable proportion has been placed on the game.

FIREMEN BOW

IN DEFEAT TO STOREROOM

KITTENBALL GAME REGISTERS 9 TO 5 IN FAVOR OF SHOPMEN

GAME CHARACTERIZED BY HOME RUNS ON BOTH SIDES

The Firemen suffered defeat at the hands of the storeroom kittenball team last evening at Koering Field, the score being 6-5.

Elmer Francson, replacing J. Avery in the pitcher's box, did some fine work for the firemen, who, though defeated, feel they made a good showing in the game.

The game was characterized by home runs on either side, Bacon and Tribur scoring the homers for the Storeroom team. Whitlock did the mound work for the shop boys. Five innings were played.

This match had been originally scheduled for April 15 but was postponed on account of cold weather.

PEQUOT MAN CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

FRANK R. PASCHKET HELD AT HENNEPIN COUNTY JAIL

ARRESTED ON COMPLAINT OF NATIONAL BANK
EXAMINER

Minneapolis, April 27.—(UP)—Frank R. Paschket, assistant cashier, is held at the Hennepin county jail today charged with embezzlement of funds of the First National Bank of Pequot, Minn.

Paschket was brought here Tuesday over from Pequot and arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Howard Abbott. He was ordered to be held in default of bond for the full term of federal court.

The bank employee, it is alleged, embezzled more than $5,000 of the bank's funds and was arrested on complaint of the national bank examiner.

The details in the case were turned over to the office of U. S. District Attorney Lafayette French, Jr., in St. Paul.

Tuain's Works Marred by Revisions Made

Our own Mark Twain always wrote under the greatest pressure. Like many other artists, he was in constant need of money, but unlike them, he held to a remarkably consistent gait in his writing.

His manuscripts are unusual; they show but few changes and corrections. His stories came as "tripping on the tongue" as his vital conversation, which was characteristically free and easy.

I have the original manuscripts of "Tom Sawyer Abroad," "Pudd'nhead Wilson" and "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court." This second was written by the author under the title of "Those Extraordinary Twins," and the last one was originally called "The Stranger's Tale."

The few corrections made by Mark Twain do not seem especially happy ones to our modern eyes. In my opinion it would have been better if he had left alone the thoughts which God first gave him. There are whole scathing paragraphs in "A Connecticut Yankee" which were never published, but should be published.—Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach in the Saturday Evening Post.

Confucius Had Right Idea in "Reciprocity"

Five hundred years before the Christian era, Confucius, on being asked to define the law of life, said it was all contained in one word, "reciprocity."

No problem ever arose in business, in statesmanship, in the general affairs of human activity that could not have been solved if a free policy of reciprocity had been adopted.

No problem ever arose in business, in statesmanship, in the general affairs of human activity that could not have been solved if a free policy of reciprocity had been adopted.

The disputes between capital and labor, the constant wrangling among politicians, the hatreds and intrigues that reach from nation to nation, could very largely be cleared up if old Confucius could only have his way.

But it is hard to see the other man's viewpoint as clearly as you see your own. It is hard to put yourself in another man's shoes. It is hard to think and feel as the other fellow thinks and feels. But it would be the part of thrift and wisdom to think more of what Confucius said 3,000 years ago.—Thrill Magazine.

Stores on Shipboard

Ship's stores are articles used on board ships, which, if used on land, would be liable to duty, for example, wines, tobacco, spirits, and the like. In a wider sense the term means the entire provisioning of a ship and the goods necessary for the making of repairs.

water. Fully six thousand people are homeless there.

The Red Cross is making every effort to bring about relief. Ten additional airplanes have been requested to carry relief to the homeless while medical supplies are being rushed into Arkansas.

The new flood menace in Illinois came in the Degonia and Fountain Bluff levee area. A 75 foot crevasse has widened to 400 feet and the waters now are beginning to spread over a large territory. If the full force of the flood sweeps into that territory 35,000 acres will be inundated, it was said.

Many of the residents of the district already have fled to higher grounds, warned by the first small break in the levee last Saturday.

The towns Gorham and Cora City—with a total population of more than 1,000—are in the direct path of the flood waters and face complete inundation.

It was reported today that the town of Calton, Ark., had been inundated through an overflow of the Quachita river. The Arkansas river also was rising rapidly and small communities were in the direct path of the overflow waters.

Many shipments of typhoid and small pox vaccine have been sent into Arkansas at the request of Gov. Martineau. The vaccine will be distributed in the centers where the first outbreaks of disease have been reported. Public health nurses also have been sent into the territory from Nashville and St. Louis to aid in battling disease among the refugees.

Chief attention of flood workers now centers south of Mississippi where the full crest of the flood is reported.

It is believed here that dynamiting of the levee at New Orleans will aid considerably in relieving the pressure of the river.

Funeral services will be either on Friday or Saturday, Mrs. Beveridge announced this afternoon. Burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery here.

HONEYMOONING WITH THIRD WIFE

Cleveland, O., April 27.—(UP)—Alexander Winton, pioneer automobile manufacturer and president of the Winton Motor Works, was honeymooning today with his third wife, it became known.

Marion Campbell, composer of Cleveland's romantic opera, "Love's Wishing Well" and the motor car magnate were married in Covington, Ky., Monday, friends of the couple learned.

SHARP BREAK IN OILS UPSETS STOCK MARKET

New York, April 27.—(UP)—A sharp break in oils upset the stock market this afternoon and a tremendous wave of selling, the second this week, started before the final gong. At 3:10 p. m. the clerks were far behind and, while the market remained open, values all through the list crumbled. Finally the clerks caught up and the market closed decidedly irregular. All oil stocks had touched new lows and the industrials had fallen off sharply.

Do We Appreciate Gulls?

Gulls are among the most perfect specimens of nature's wonderful handicraft. No creature could be better fitted for the rough life it has to lead.

To enable these birds to withstand cold and wet, their bodies contain great quantities of oil, and as lungs would not hold sufficient oxygen for the great efforts they must make in stormy weather, all their larger bones are hollow and act as reservoirs.

The gull's part of life seems to be to keep the near coast waters of the ocean clean and tidy; without them it would soon be strewn with decaying matter. To enable them to do this work thoroughly they are provided with enormous appetites. A gull will eat half its own weight in food in a single day.

Nothing to Do With Horse

Frequently a thing or ill-timed happening is described as "a mare's nest," but it is doubtful if the user of that phrase has any definite idea of its meaning. Certainly "mare" in this case has nothing to do with a horse. It is really a corruption of "Mara," a malevolent creature who, according to tradition, possessed a store or nest filled with wonderful jewels to excite the envy of others.

This particular demon may never have existed, but it unquestionably influenced our speech, for whenever we refer to "nightmares" we are again unconsciously paying tribute to him.

Sugar Trees

The bureau of plant industry says that there is no sugar tree in this country. There is a sugar palm which grows in tropical countries. All maples have sweet sap, but from only a few species have sirup and sugar been produced in paying quantities. The sugar maple (Acer saccharum) and the black maple (Acer saccharum nigrum) are practically the only trees used for this purpose. As a tree for the production of sirup and sugar in commercial quantities, the maple tree is confined to the eastern and northern United States and the neighboring western parts of Canada.

Eucharistic Congress Film at Lyceum

The motion picture record in eight crowded reels of the 28th Eucharistic Congress, now at the Lyceum theatre, makes one search far for words adequate to hint of its tremendous impressiveness.

After the Ball

A dashing phase of every artist's ball is the home going, in the cold gray dawn of the morning after. Invariably it rains, and there is not a taxi in sight. Makeup and grease paint are running, parts of rented costumes are missing, wigs are lost, lovers are separated and husbands and wives are not speaking. Oh, what bliss, to mingle in gay, mad Bohemia!—Vanity Fair.

A Type of Performance Not to be Matched by any other six near its price

DIFFERENT—utterly different in the quality that stands out as distinctly in its exterior beauty as in its interior elegance, the Hupmobile Six contrasts even more strikingly with the ordinary six in performance.

The vigor of its response, the easy way it reels off top speeds with perfect smoothness, the marked restfulness of its riding and driving—these impress you at once as unusual.

And the quality is decidedly unusual—for Hupmobile actually puts 10% extra into materials and workmanship, thus making this the closest-priced Six in America.

HONEYMOONING WITH THIRD WIFE

Cleveland, O., April 27.—(UP)—Alexander Winton, pioneer automobile manufacturer and president of the Winton Motor Works, was honeymooning today with his third wife, it became known.

Marion Campbell, composer of Cleveland's romantic opera, "Love's Wishing Well" and the motor car magnate were married in Covington, Ky., Monday, friends of the couple learned.

SHARP BREAK IN OILS UPSETS STOCK MARKET

New York, April 27.—(UP)—A sharp break in oils upset the stock market this afternoon and a tremendous wave of selling, the second this week, started before the final gong. At 3:10 p. m. the clerks were far behind and, while the market remained open, values all through the list crumbled. Finally the clerks caught up and the market closed decidedly irregular. All oil stocks had touched new lows and the industrials had fallen off sharply.

Do We Appreciate Gulls?

Gulls are among the most perfect specimens of nature's wonderful handicraft. No creature could be better fitted for the rough life it has to lead. To enable these birds to withstand cold and wet, their bodies contain great quantities of oil, and as lungs would not hold sufficient oxygen for the great efforts they must make in stormy weather, all their larger bones are hollow and act as reservoirs.

The gull's part of life seems to be to keep the near coast waters of the ocean clean and tidy; without them it would soon be strewn with decaying matter. To enable them to do this work thoroughly they are provided with enormous appetites. A gull will eat half its own weight in food in a single day.

Nothing to Do With Horse

Frequently a thing or ill-timed happening is described as "a mare's nest," but it is doubtful if the user of that phrase has any definite idea of its meaning. Certainly "mare" in this case has nothing to do with a horse. It is really a corruption of "Mara," a malevolent creature who, according to tradition, possessed a store or nest filled with wonderful jewels to excite the envy of others.

This particular demon may never have existed, but it unquestionably influenced our speech, for whenever we refer to "nightmares" we are again unconsciously paying tribute to him.

Sugar Trees

The bureau of plant industry says that there is no sugar tree in this country. There is a sugar palm which grows in tropical countries. All maples have sweet sap, but from only a few species have sirup and sugar been produced in paying quantities. The sugar maple (Acer saccharum) and the black maple (Acer saccharum nigrum) are practically the only trees used for this purpose. As a tree for the production of sirup and sugar in commercial quantities, the maple tree is confined to the eastern and northern United States and the neighboring western parts of Canada.

BUSTER KEATON in "THE GENERAL"

$500,000 Keaton Comedy Coming to Lyceum

Acclaimed as the costliest and most lavish comedy ever produced, "The General," Buster Keaton's laugh and thrill feature of the Civil War comes to the Lyceum theatre Thursday for two days.

Eucharistic Congress Film at Lyceum

The motion picture record in eight crowded reels of the 28th Eucharistic Congress, now at the Lyceum theatre, makes one search far for words adequate to hint of its tremendous impressiveness.

This reviewer came away with the thought uppermost that it is the most powerfully impressive picture of all time. For it is actually, an expression never equalled of religious manifestation and has been photographed in the most comprehensive and expert fashion.

After the Ball

A dashing phase of every artist's ball is the home going. In the cold gray dawn of the morning after. Invariably it rains, and there is not a taxi in sight. Makeup and grease paint are running, parts of rented costumes are missing, wigs are lost, lovers are separated and husbands and wives are not speaking. Oh, what bliss, to mingle in gay, mad Bohemia!—Vanity Fair.

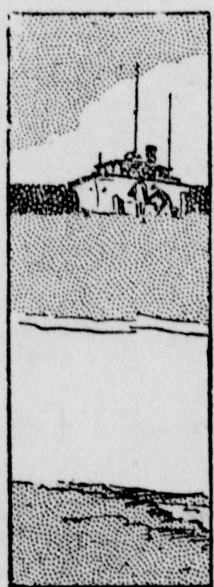

A Type of Performance Not to be Matched by any other six near its price

DIFFERENT—utterly different in the quality that stands out as distinctly in its exterior beauty as in its interior elegance, the Hupmobile Six contrasts even more strikingly with the ordinary six in performance.

The vigor of its response, the easy way it reels off top speeds with perfect smoothness, the marked restfulness of its riding and driving—these impress you at once as unusual.

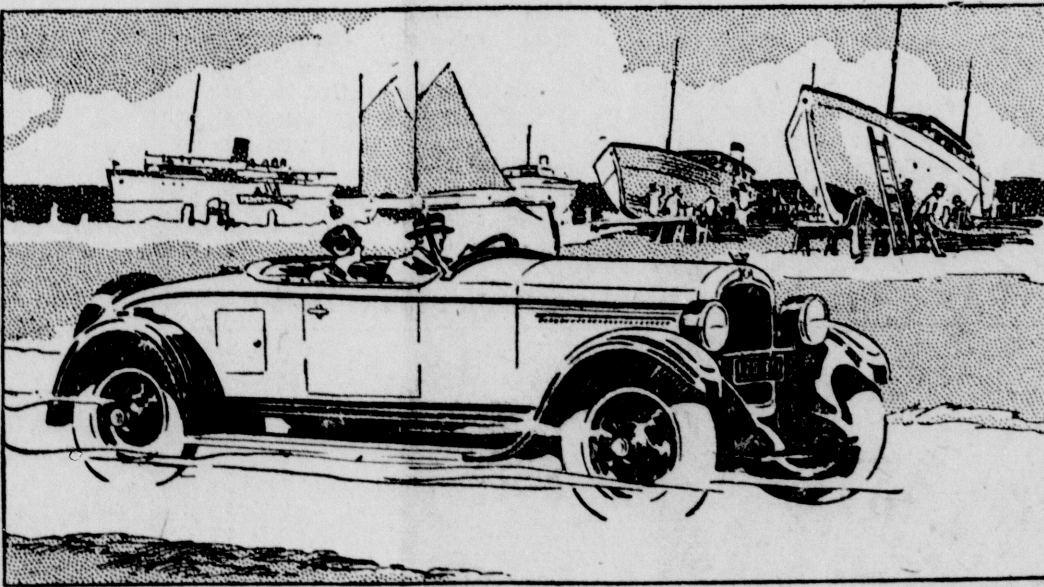

And the quality is decidedly unusual—for Hupmobile actually puts 10% extra into materials and workmanship, thus making this the closest-priced Six in America.

If quality means more to you than showy appearance—then inevitably you will single out Hupmobile as the Six of soundest value and surest satisfaction in its field.

WOOL GROWERS MET IN CITY

Organized and Elected Officers at Farmers Room, Court House

ROBERT POTTER PRESIDENT

John Vanderwerker Vice President,
Phillip Houle Secretary-
Treasurer

Crow Wing County wool growers who met Friday at the Farmer's room in the court house decided to organize and elected the following officers.

President—Robert Potter.
Vice President—John Vanderwerker.
Secretary-Treasurer—Phillip Houle.

Among the speakers were A. J. Huddleson, president of the Minnesota Wool Growers' association and R. F. MacKamon, president of the Aitkin Wool Growers' association.

It was decided to pool the wool this year and to send it to the Wabasha wool pool. It was expected that the wool could be assembled in Brainerd around the first of June and sent away in a car load lot.

According to County Agent E. G. Roth, Crow Wing county has 200 wool growers and 4,000 head of sheep.

SPECIAL SERVICES HELD

Rev. H. R. Peterson of St. Cloud
Speaker at Swedish
Baptist Church

The first service of the two week campaign to be held at the Swedish Baptist church was very well attended.

Rev. H. R. Peterson of St. Cloud who is the speaker for the campaign spoke on "Christ Pre-Eminent." He held forth that the Bible gives Christ the place of pre-eminence in a seven-fold way. Christ is given this place of pre-eminence because He came in the image of the invisible God to reveal the Father as a God of Love. He did not number His days beginning at the manger at Bethlehem but Christ is the first born of every creature. The Bible speaks with authority concerning creation and says that by Christ were all things created. The Bible reveals further that all things were created for Him so that all things in heaven and earth should glorify the name of Jesus Christ. Christ is pre-eminent as the head of the church. No service is rendered in the church in any capacity except He as the head knows of it and will reward faithfulness. But greatest of all messages comes from the cold sepulchre. "He is not here." He is arisen from the grave, the first-born of the dead, and brings comfort to aching hearts. "I am the resurrection and the life."

Christ should have the place of pre-eminence in our lives because of what He has done for us in bringing peace to troubled souls as He whispers "My Peace do I give thee." Through Him will we enjoy privileges of children of God and only when He is given the place of pre-eminence in our lives will we enjoy the freedom of soul and power of His spirit and see the fulfillment of all the promises of the Bible that pertain to the individual life.

Tonight the choir will sing special selections and Rev. Peterson will speak on the theme "The Glories of the Cross."

All services are in the English language except Thursday night and Sunday morning. All evening services begin at 7:45 p. m.

VICTOR RECORD ORCHESTRA

ZeZ Confrey and His Musicians at U.

April 29

When ZeZ Confrey and his Victor Record orchestra come to the U. C. T. auditorium on Friday, April 29, the people of Brainerd can well feel proud that Brainerd is the smallest city that this orchestra has ever played in. Minneapolis and Fargo citizens wonder why their cities are passed up and Brainerd given the first chance. The U. C. T. of Brainerd under whose auspices this orchestra appears, believes that the public will patronize a musical organization of international reputation and have assumed the heavy expense guarantee to bring them to Brainerd.

ZeZ Confrey and his orchestra have made hundreds of Victor Records and to see and hear this wonderful orchestra should be the aim of any person who likes music.

The interest shown by the towns in the vicinity of Brainerd speaks well of the high esteem this world famous pianist is held. A mail order for 80 tickets was received from Wadena yesterday, four from Duluth and 12 from Minneapolis. Crosby and Ironton have sent for a block of 100 tickets.

Brainerd is the only stop for this orchestra which is coming direct from Portland, Ore., and leaving for Chicago after the Brainerd engagement.

The delinquent personal property tax list for Crow Wing county has been turned over to Sheriff Claus A. Theorin who will take strenuous measures to enforce the payment of the taxes which became delinquent April 23, if not paid before June 1.

The tax list was published in the pages of the Dispatch and everyone's assessment and date set for payment was printed, enabling tax payers to have plenty of time and opportunity to pay their taxes at the county treasurer's office in the court house before the 10 percent penalty took effect. Everyone who pays taxes now will have to pay the penalty beside the clerk's fees.

If taxes are not paid by June 1 the sheriff's office is authorized to seize a delinquent's property and offer it for public sale.

The sheriff's office will be open evenings for the next ten days to accommodate those who may be unable to make their payments during working hours.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Girls Suffered Minor Bruises and Scratches, and Given Prompt Aid

Two girls were slightly injured when the car in which they were riding overturned near Sylvan Monday night. They were taken to St. Joseph's hospital here but examination revealed that they had suffered only minor bruises and scratches and they were discharged this morning.

The two young ladies, accompanied by Elmer Hines and Frank Carney, were on their way to a dance at Pillager when the accident occurred.

All the young people are reported to be from Brainerd with the exception of Miss Butterfield, who is said to live at Gull Lake. The young men escaped injury.

A passing motorist took the party to the hospital here, leaving the motor of the damaged car still running.

Koop.

Other members of this committee will be named during the week and the city-wide canvass will begin Monday, according to the general campaign committee. Those who are willing to give an hour or two next week to aid in the annual canvass are requested to call campaign headquarters, phone 542.

Elmer E. Olson, cashier of the Citizens State bank, has been named as campaign treasurer.

Work of organizing the business district for the canvass is now going forward, according to the committee.

Few Nonswimming Animals

All animals excepting man, monkeys, and perhaps the three toed sloth, either swim naturally or go through the motions of swimming when suddenly immersed in water. There are, however, several animals that, although they swim naturally, drown as they swim. This is the case with rabbits, mice, moles and the smaller cats, drowning being the result of the fur becoming saturated.

NEW SCENERY AT THE PARK

G. V. Cannon of St. Paul Engaged
by Finkelstein
& Ruben

MOVIE CONTEST PLANS

New Type of Scenery is a Great Improvement Over
Old Sets

G. V. Cannon of St. Paul, Finkelstein & Ruben, scenery artist, is at the Park theatre this week repainting scenery and putting a number of sets in shape for the use of the theatre in connection with the Movie Contest now being conducted by the Brainerd Dispatch and Finkelstein & Ruben.

Mr. Cannon, who is in his own words a scene painter by profession making drum corps work his hobby, is now painting two sets at the Park theatre. The first is in pebble art work with stippled panels, in toned effect. Fourteen or fifteen colors, are splashed on a background that ranges from green at the top to deep blue at the bottom of the panel. The design used is one of the latest in scene painting and a set almost identical with the one at the local theatre was recently finished at the Garfield theatre, Minneapolis.

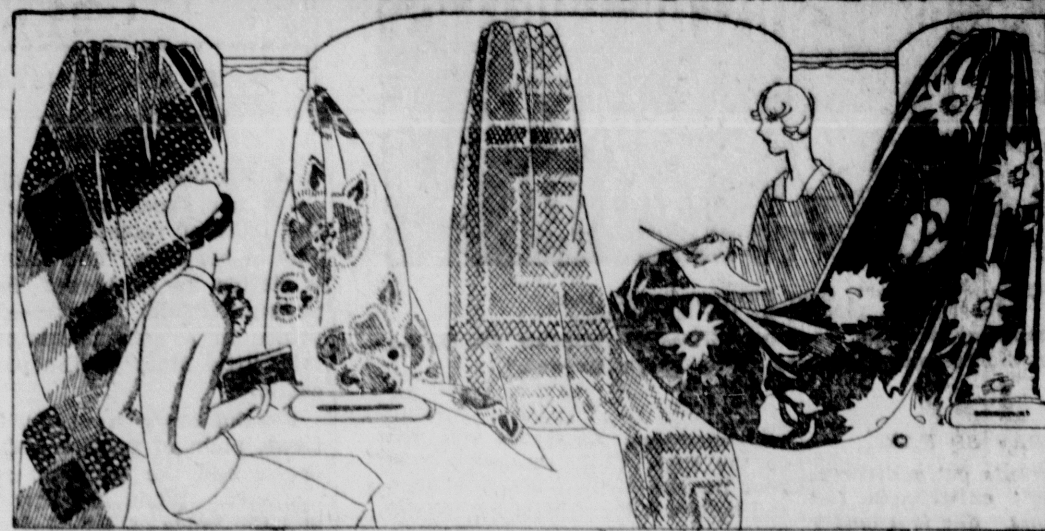

Flood lights striking the stippled work of the panels bring out in relief the colors which match the color of the light. This type of scenery is a big improvement over old sets since many effects can be obtained with different colored lights. The bottom of the panels will be finished in circassian walnut effect.

A light modern art set for use in interior scenes will also be painted by Mr. Cannon. This set, with flowered panels, will be a "light" scene in contrast with the stippled set which will be used where "heavy" scenery is required.

Mr. Cannon will be assisted in his work by Edward Carter of St. Paul, another artist, who will arrive in a few days. In addition to their paint work they will install a pin rail on the floor at the south side of the stage at the Park. This rail will facilitate the changing of scenes, speeding up the work and making it unnecessary for the management to have a stage hand in the fly loft. All ropes needed in handling scenes will be close together and easily handled by two men.

One of the interior sets now at the theatre will require special attention and will be sent to the Finkelstein & Ruben studio in Minneapolis for repainting.

The artist and his assistant have recently finished work at Duluth and Superior theatres. In addition to work at Brainerd their contract calls for redecorating at Rochester, Manhattan, Winona, Hibbing and Virginia.

Prompt Aid

Two girls were slightly injured when the car in which they were riding overturned near Sylvan Monday night. They were taken to St. Joseph's hospital here but examination revealed that they had suffered only minor bruises and scratches and they were discharged this morning.

The two young ladies, accompanied by Elmer Hines and Frank Carney, were on their way to a dance at Pillager when the accident occurred. All the young people are reported to be from Brainerd with the exception of Miss Butterfield, who is said to live at Gull Lake. The young men escaped injury.

A passing motorist took the party to the hospital here, leaving the motor of the damaged car still running.

Other members of this committee will be named during the week and the city-wide canvass will begin Monday, according to the general campaign committee. Those who are willing to give an hour or two next week to aid in the annual canvass are requested to call campaign headquarters, phone 543.

Elmer E. Olson, cashier of the Citizens State bank, has been named as campaign treasurer.

Work of organizing the business district for the canvass is now going forward, according to the committee.

Few Nonswimming Animals

All animals excepting man, monkeys, and perhaps the three-toed sloth, either swim naturally or go through the motions of swimming when suddenly immersed in water. There are, however, several animals that, although they swim naturally, drown as they swim. This is the case with rabbits, mice, moles and the smaller cats, drowning being the result of the fur becoming saturated.

NEW SCENERY AT THE PARK

G. V. Cannon of St. Paul Engaged
by Finkelstein
& Ruben

MOVIE CONTEST PLANS

New Type of Scenery is a Great Improvement Over
Old Sets

G. V. Cannon of St. Paul, Finkelstein & Ruben, scenery artist, is at the Park theatre this week repainting scenery and putting a number of sets in shape for the use of the theatre in connection with the Movie Contest now being conducted by the Brainerd Dispatch and Finkelstein & Ruben.

Mr. Cannon, who is in his own words a scene painter by profession making drum corps work his hobby, is now painting two sets at the Park theatre. The first is in pebble art work with stippled panels, in toned effect. Fourteen or fifteen colors, are splashed on a background that ranges from green at the top to deep blue at the bottom of the panel. The design used is one of the latest in scene painting and a set almost identical with the one at the local theatre was recently finished at the Garrick theatre, Minneapolis.

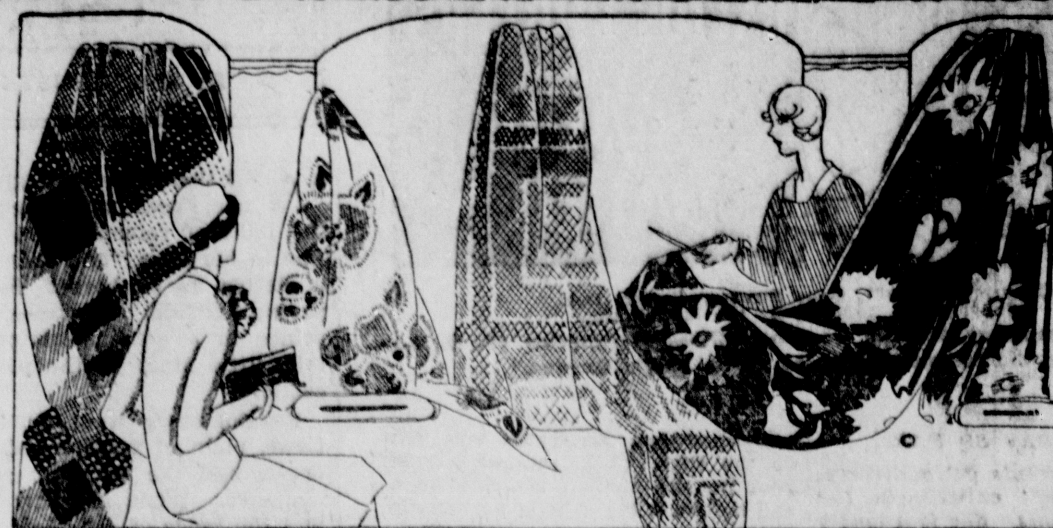

Flood lights striking the stippled work of the panels bring out in relief the colors which match the color of the light. This type of scenery is a big improvement over old sets since many effects can be obtained with different colored lights. The bottom of the panels will be finished in circassian walnut effect.

A light modern art set for use in interior scenes will also be painted by Mr. Cannon. This set, with flowered panels, will be a "light" scene in contrast with the stippled set which will be used where "heavy" scenery is required.

Mr. Cannon will be assisted in his work by Edward Carter of St. Paul, another artist, who will arrive in a few days. In addition to their paint work they will install a pin rail on the floor at the south side of the stage at the Park. This rail will facilitate the changing of scenes, speeding up the work and making it unnecessary for the management to have a stage hand in the fly loft. All ropes needed in handling scenes will be close together and easily handled by two men.

One of the interior sets now at the theatre will require special attention and will be sent to the Finkelstein & Ruben studio in Minneapolis for repainting.

The artist and his assistant have recently finished work at Duluth and Superior theatres. In addition to work at Brainerd their contract calls for redecorating at Rochester, Mankato, Winona, Hibbing and Virginia.

THE STORY SO FAR

When her parents get a divorce, Amaryllis is left entirely in the charge of servants. She is a lonely little soul and does not have a friend in the world, for her brother Peter is not always kind to her. She goes to call on him, but he is more selfish than usual, so she leaves and has the chauffeur drive her to a lovely spot in the country, where she bribes him to let her get out and walk in the woods. The chauffeur falls asleep and for the first time in her life Amaryllis is free.

Today she had made her chance; so just as still as a faint breath of air Amaryllis climbed the fence and slipped back to the car. Why she did this was because she was a dead game little sport. For weeks she had waited; this was her first chance; but she had made a promise. She was forced to go back to the car.

The bank was very steep and it was hard to reach the running-board on that side. So, softly, on tiptoes, she slipped around to the other side and climbed up. She worked until she got the back door of the big car open, and stepping into it, she reached into the driver's compartment and dropped the money she had promised him on the seat beside him. That was Amaryllis. If she told Benson she would hold still and be good while she was bathed, she did it. What ever she said she would do, that thing she did.

Today she was going to put the first stain on her record. She was not going to keep her whole promise. She had told the driver that she would stay on the rock and she had not intended to do it when she told him, because that day the ache in her side was so very dreadful and Peter had not been the slightest help. In fact, Peter had not done a thing but make it worse, because as far as Amaryllis could see, Peter was more helpless than she was. She knew that he was twice as old as she was. She had heard it often enough. But Peter looked hungrier and lonelier than she did. There had been a nice engine. They could have had some fun with it if Peter had gotten down on the floor and played; but Peter only stood at the window and looked across the big island to the one spot where he ever had a good time, and remained grumpy.

For the first time, Amaryllis played.

So Amaryllis had at last a chance to work out a thought that for a long, long time had been hidden in her heart. She felt slightly sorry for the chauffeur as she laid the money beside him and closed her purse with her hanky and her small silver in it. She thought very likely they might scold him when he went back home without her, but that could not be helped, because home (when there was nobody in it) but one little girl and a number of big people who were so selfish that they did not care what became of that little girl so long as she was alive) was not a place that did anything but make a big, hard spot in your left side and a big hard place you could not swallow down in your neck.

Just as still as thistle seed on the wind Amaryllis turned, ever so tiptoe softly, to step from the running-board to the road, and as she lowered herself, one of the big blue loops of ribbon on her floppy hat caught over the latch and tore the loose at one side. In an effort to save the hat, Amaryllis dropped her purse. She had some little difficulty disentangling the ribbon. When she finally got it loose she was so frightened for fear a car would come whizzing down the road or the driver would wake up and her beautiful scheme would be spoiled that her little hands trembled. With the ribbon loose at one end she could not tie the hat on her head. Neither could she hold it while she climbed the fence. What difference did it make whether she wore a hat or not? There were boxes of them of all colors at home. In desperation she threw it as far into the middle of the road as she could, while she never thought of the purse.

But with this picture clear in your mind it is easy to see what the chauffeur thought when he awakened and Amaryllis was not on the rock, while the car's back door on the street side was open and before it lay a little purse, and in the street lay a torn, floppy little hat!

Amaryllis slid down the embankment and oh, so soft and easy she took her ruffles over the fence, and on tiptoes, and looking back until she was very sure that she was not going to be seen, she reached the little path, the nice, black path that had the imprints of children's bare feet on it, the path that seemed to lead back into the land the like of which Amaryllis never had seen.

Once she was past the stone, she gripped a hand into her skirts on either side and lifted them high, and down that path she went as fast as ever her legs could carry her. They were rather sturdy legs and they could carry her quite a distance. Down that path she went as fast as she could race, and when she grew tired at last and her breath began to come in short gasps, she sat down and rested awhile. The further she went, the thicker the bushes became, while the little path was not so well traveled as it had been. But it was still a path. She could make her way. The sun kept on shining, the birds cried: "Come on! Come play with us!" There was not a soul anywhere to say: "Amaryllis don't!"

It would not have made any difference if there had been, because this was the thing that Amaryllis had been planning for a long, long time. She intended to run away from every one. She had planned for months to beat those barred gates. She was going to go on and on, until she found some house that looked friendly, that had a mother in it. She was going to go into it and knock on the door and in her very prettiest party way she was going to ask the people if, please, they didn't want a very good little girl at their house?

The one thing that bothered Amaryllis was where the house was going to be. As far as she could see, there was not any house and a marshy place was coming into the stream. It was a land of wonder in the marshy place. There were yellow flowers, and there were red flowers and blue flowers. There were more birds, and there were great velvet butterflies. Oh, it was a wonderful place!

Amaryllis stood up and went on more slowly and the nice path led around the edge of the marshy place and went right back on the bank of the singing brook again. Here the brook was prettier than it had been below the marsh. The water was clearer and the bed was rougher, so the water roared louder and laughed and chuckled.

Amaryllis sat down and pulled off her shoes. She did not pay much attention to where she threw them or to where she threw her stockings. Then she slipped down the bank and set her little feet, which were velvet soft and tender, the little feet that never had touched the earth before in all her life, she set them bare, right down on the creek bank. The feel of it was the most delightful thing, so soft and cool. The narrow green blades of grass dropped over and tickled them. Two or three steps and she kicked her toes in the water. It was the greatest fun! Then she stepped in on a pebbly place and let the water run over her toes. That made her dance and squeal for joy. She had to be careful not to fall.

So she held her skirts on each side and followed out the little pebbly shoal and stood still. The sun smiled down on her and the birds sang for her, and oh! how that water did sing! Back up a short way it came roaring over a fall and it laughed and chuckled about it, and then it swirled out into a deep pool where more of the tiny fishes were. Then it straightened up and came right down toward her and went between two big stones and said, "Glug! Glug! Glug!" Amaryllis stuck the tip of her little pink tongue out then and said, "Glug! Glug! Glug!" after it. That was fun! Water beat Peter all hollow. Water would talk to her! So she stood there kicking her toes in the water to make it splash and mocking what it said and laughing for pure joy.

Then she heard something. Something coming. It seemed as if it were coming down the brook and yet it could not be coming down the brook because what she heard was music.

"AND then," the little girl sat with her knees under her chin and the light of romance and romancing was in her eyes, "and then there was a clatter as of horses' feet on the paving outside. It was—it was the prince in a golden chariot, come to take little Mary to the picnic at the castle."

So the story went on for Bonnie Lawr, plain of feature and modest in dress, had the trick of holding her audience. When she saw the fairies and the lands of splendor she was no longer the skinny Lawr girl. Her brown eyes become soft and she held her chin high. The circle tightened about her and Nathan Cromwell, of the freckled face, was closest. It was great fun, more fun than floating a raft in the creek, when Bonnie Lawr got "to seeing things."

After it was over and the girl had gone home, to the poorest home in Minden, she thanked her stars ruefully that she had an imagination. Always, in her play, she listened for the clatter of the horses and the coming of the prince.

Jasonville was planning its spring festival. The governor was going to deliver a speech, the silver cornet band was to play, and several hundred school children in marvels of home-made costumes were scheduled to execute maneuvers on the green. The little town fluttered in excitement a month ahead of the date but when the time narrowed to a week, and then a day, nothing else was worthy of conversation. Hadn't the merchants agreed to lock doors, and weren't the church ladies going to serve ice cream!

On a little home in Elder avenue a sign proclaimed: "Miss Bonnie Lawr, dressmaking." There behind the window, waiting for her prince, was a brown-eyed woman of something over thirty. She was the Bonnie of old doings her best to pretend that Platt Peters, assistant at the garage, was a prince and that the automobile he would presently steer to the curb was a chariot. Platt, as a member of the "committee on conveyances" had agreed to see that Miss Lawr reached the picnic grounds. As he was married, very fat, and smoked a vile pipe it was so difficult to picture him as the prince, the Bonnie sighed.

Then it was the limousine came up the street. Bonnie's imagination made it hers but her mind told her it would go by without stopping. The limousine drew up to the curb and she rose frightened. It was a beautiful car with a uniformed chauffeur who had alighted and was opening the door.

The man who walked up to her door wore a high hat. It was the first Bonnie Lawr had ever seen. In the pictures such men were either landlords or United States senators. Thinking that he had made a mistake and that she must explain the dressmaker went to the door.

"Miss Lawr," the magnificent stranger was bowing, "I have come to take you to the picnic, if you will let me." Bonnie could only nod. The committee on conveyances had found this surprising substitute for Platt Peters. As in a dream she walked to the car which was such a one as she had never seen. The stranger could see she was radiant.

"And then, and then," he was saying softly, "there came a clatter of hoofs in the court, and—"

"Nate Cromwell!"

"Bonnie! Don't you know I have been looking for you? Do you think I didn't mean it when I said I would be successful some day and come back? Bonnie, I went back to Minden, and you were gone. No one could tell me where."

"But Nate, I didn't think you meant it. I thought you had forgotten. You were no more than a boy."

And so she rode to the picnic and when the crowd shouted a welcome and the silver band began to play she had her second surprise. This magnificent man, this Nate Cromwell of the high hat, this man who had just kissed her, was the governor. The little dressmaker's dream had come true.

Need Another Deluge

"It seems a pity," Mark Twain once said, "that Noah and members of his family did not miss the boat."

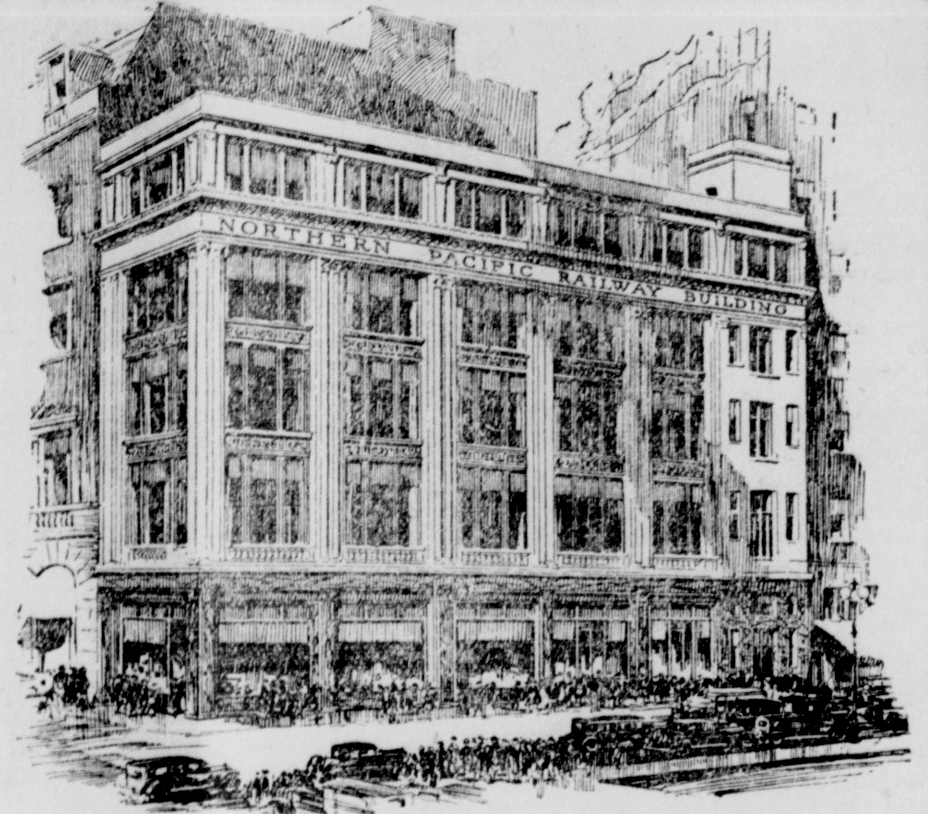

"This statement was intended as a joke," adds Ed Howe, "but there is a good deal more than a joke in it. If Noah and members of his family had not found safety in the ark, the human race would have ended with the flood. Up to the time of Noah, the people had acted in such a foolish way that the Lord decided it was best to destroy them. The descendants of Noah are not doing any better. So it seems a pity Noah and members of his family did not miss the boat."—Capper's Weekly.

For two days they had a Swedish clerk in one of the shoe stores on Hollywood boulevard. He isn't there now, but he might have been had not the boss detected him in the act of throwing a brand new pair of shoes into the waste basket.

"Hey! What's the idea of throwing those shoes away like that?" "They bare no good. I try them on six feller already and they don't fit no one."—Los Angeles Times.

New Northern Pacific Building
Now Open in New York City

The industrial, agricultural and social progress of the Northwest and the recreational advantages of that territory are to be set constantly before countless thousands of persons at one of the busiest corners in New York.

The Northern Pacific Railway Company has just opened a new passenger office in New York at Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth street in a reconstructed building which for many years was the home of the famous Dreier & Company. Here is to be provided a convenient headquarters for northwest travelers in uptown New York and at the same time this new Northern Pacific office will serve Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon as an exposition building where every day in the year this territory served by the company's lines will be called to the attention of New Yorkers and transients.

The new Northern Pacific Railway building is a five-story structure of black marble and white stone. The interior of the passenger office carries color and theme of the railroad's trademark—black and red predominating. Large display windows on Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth street picture Northwest scenes and products, which are effectively shown as upon miniature theater stages with novel lighting effects to emphasize Northwest attractions and to catch and hold attention of passersby.

In announcing removal of the company's offices from 280 Broadway to the uptown location, A. B. Smith, passenger traffic manager, said this step is a part of the new policy of Northwest railroads. Recent public discussions have shown the need of better acquaintance and better understanding as between the people of the east and the people of the west, he said, and by establishing this office in the heart of the New York shopping district and equipping it to furnish information about the Northwest the Northern Pacific not only will facilitate the handling of its own business but will contribute in an important way to that better understanding.

With indications this year that travel to the North Pacific and intermediate territory will compare favorably with other "heavy passenger travel years," the opening of the new New York offices of the Northern Pacific is timely, Mr. Smith said.

THE STORY SO FAR

When her parents get a divorce, Amariyllis is left entirely in the charge of servants. She is a lonely little soul and does not have a friend in the world, for her brother Peter is not always kind to her. She goes to call on him, but he is more selfish than usual, so she leaves and has the chauffeur drive her to a lovely spot in the country, where she bribes him to let her get out and walk in the woods. The chauffeur falls asleep and for the first time in her life Amariyllis is free.

Today she had made her chance; so just as still as a faint breath of air Amariyllis climbed the fence and slipped back to the car. Why she did this was because she was a dead game little sport. For weeks she had waited; this was her first chance; but she had made a promise. She was forced to go back to the car.

The bank was very steep and it was hard to reach the running-board on that side. So, softly, on tiptoes, she slipped around to the other side and climbed up. She worked until she got the back door of the big car open, and stepping into it, she reached into the driver's compartment and dropped the money she had promised him on the seat beside him. That was Amariyllis. If she told Benson she would hold still and be good while she was bathed, she did it. Whatever she said she would do, that thing she did.

Today she was going to put the first stain on her record. She was not going to keep her whole promise. She had told the driver that she would stay on the rock and she had not intended to do it when she told him, because that day the ache in her side was so very dreadful and Peter had not been the slightest help. In fact, Peter had not done a thing but make it worse, because as far as Amariyllis could see, Peter was more helpless than she was. She knew that he was twice as old as she was. She had heard it often enough. But Peter looked hungrier and lonelier than she did. There had been a nice engine. They could have had some fun with it if Peter had gotten down on the floor and played, but Peter only stood at the window and looked across the big island to the one spot where he ever had a good time, and remained grumpy.

For the first time, Amariyllis played.

So Amariyllis had at last a chance to work out a thought that for a long, long time had been hidden in her heart. She felt slightly sorry for the chauffeur as she laid the money beside him and closed her purse with her hanky and her small silver in it. She thought very likely they might scold him when he went back home without her, but that could not be helped, because home (when there was nobody in it but one little girl and a number of big people who were so selfish that they did not care what became of that little girl so long as she was alive) was not a place that did anything but make a big, hard spot in your left side and a big hard place you could not swallow down in your neck.

Just as still as a thistle seed on the wind Amariyllis turned, ever so tiptoe softly, to step from the running-board to the road, and as she lowered herself, one of the big blue loops of ribbon on her floppy hat caught over the latch and tore the tie loose at one side. In an effort to save the hat, Amariyllis dropped her purse. She had some little difficulty disentangling the ribbon. When she finally got it loose she was so frightened for fear a car would come whizzing down the road or the driver would wake up and her beautiful scheme would be spoiled that her little hands trembled. With the ribbon loose at one end she could not tie the hat on her head. Neither could she hold it while she climbed the fence. What difference did it make whether she wore a hat or not? There were boxes of them of all colors at home. In desperation she threw it as far into the middle of the road as she could, while she never thought of the purse.

But with this picture clear in your mind it is easy to see what the chauffeur thought when he awakened and Amariyllis was not on the rock, while the car's back door on the street side was open and before it lay a little purse, and in the street lay a torn, floppy little hat!

Amariyllis slid down the embankment and oh, so soft and easy she took her ruffles over the fence, and on tiptoe, and looking back until she was very sure that she was not going to be seen, she reached the little path, the nice, black path that had the imprints of children's bare feet on it, the path that seemed to lead back into the land the like of which Amariyllis never had seen.

Once she was past the stone, she gripped a hand into her skirts on either side and lifted them high, and down that path she went as fast as ever her legs could carry her. They were rather sturdy legs and they could carry her quite a distance. Down that path she went as fast as she could race, and when she grew tired at last and her breath began to come in short gasps, she sat down and rested awhile. The farther she went, the thicker the bushes became, while the little path was not so well traveled as it had been. But it was still a path. She could make her way. The sun kept on shining, the birds cried: "Come on! Come play with us!" There was not a soul anywhere to say: "Amariyllis don't!"

It would not have made any difference if there had been, because this was the thing that Amariyllis had been planning for a long, long time. She intended to run away from every one. She had planned for months to beat those barred gates. She was going to go on and on, until she found some house that looked friendly, that had a mother in it. She was going to go into it and knock on the door and in her

"AND then," the little girl sat with her knees under her chin and the light of romance and romancing was in her eyes, "and then there was a clatter as of horses' feet on the paving outside. It was—it was the prince in a golden chariot, come to take little Mary to the picnic at the castle."

So the story went on for Bonnie Lawr, plain of feature and modest in dress, had the trick of holding her audience. When she saw the fairies and the lands of splendor she was no longer the skinny Lawr girl. Her brown eyes become soft and she held her chin high. The circle tightened about her and Nathan Cromwell, of the freckled face, was closest. It was great fun, more fun than floating a raft in the creek, when Bonnie Lawr got "to seeing things."

After it was over and the girl had gone home, to the poorest home in Minden, she thanked her stars ruefully that she had an imagination. Always, in her play, she listened for the clatter of the horses and the coming of the prince.

Jasonville was planning its spring festival. The governor was going to deliver a speech, the silver cornet band was to play, and several hundred school children in marvels of home-made costumes were scheduled to execute maneuvers on the green. The little town fluttered in excitement a month ahead of the date but when the time narrowed to a week, and then a day, nothing else was worthy of conversation. Hadn't the merchants agreed to lock doors, and weren't the church ladies going to serve ice cream!

On a little home in Elder avenue a sign proclaimed: "Miss Bonnie Lawr, dressmaking." There behind the window, waiting for her prince, was a brown-eyed woman of something over thirty. She was the Bonnie of old doing her best to pretend that Platt Peters, assistant at the garage, was a prince and that the automobile he would presently steer to the curb was a chariot. Platt, as a member of the "committee on conveyances" had agreed to see that Miss Lawr reached the picnic grounds. As he was married, very fat, and smoked a vile pipe it was so difficult to picture him as the prince, the Bonnie sighed.

Then it was the limousine came up the street. Bonnie's imagination made it hers but her mind told her it would go by without stopping. The limousine drew up to the curb and she rose frightened. It was a beautiful car with a uniformed chauffeur who had alighted and was opening the door.

The man who walked up to her door wore a high hat. It was the first Bonnie Lawr had ever seen. In the pictures such men were either landlords or United States senators. Thinking that he had made a mistake and that she must explain the dressmaker went to the door.

"Miss Lawr," the magnificent stranger was bowing, "I have come to take you to the picnic, if you will let me."

Bonnie could only nod. The committee on conveyances had found this surprising substitute for Platt Peters. As in a dream she walked to the car which was such a one as she had never seen. The stranger could see she was radiant.

"And then, and then," he was saying softly, "there came a clatter of hoofs in the court, and—"

"Nate Cromwell!"

"Bonnie! Don't you know I have been looking for you? Do you think I didn't mean it when I said I would be successful some day and come back? Bonnie, I went back to Minden, and you were gone. No one could tell me where."

"But Nate, I didn't think you meant it. I thought you had forgotten. You were no more than a boy."

And so she rode to the picnic and when the crowd shouted a welcome and the silver band began to play she had her second surprise. This magnificent man, this Nate Cromwell of the high hat, this man who had just kissed her, was the governor. The little dressmaker's dream had come true.

Need Another Deluge

"It seems a pity," Mark Twain once said, "that Noah and members of his family did not miss the boat."

"This statement was intended as a joke," adds Ed Howe, "but there is a good deal more than a joke in it. If Noah and members of his family had not found safety in the ark, the human race would have ended with the flood. Up to the time of Noah, the people had acted in such a foolish way that the Lord decided it was best to destroy them. The descendants of Noah are not doing any better. So it seems a pity Noah and members of his family did not miss the boat."—Capper's Weekly.

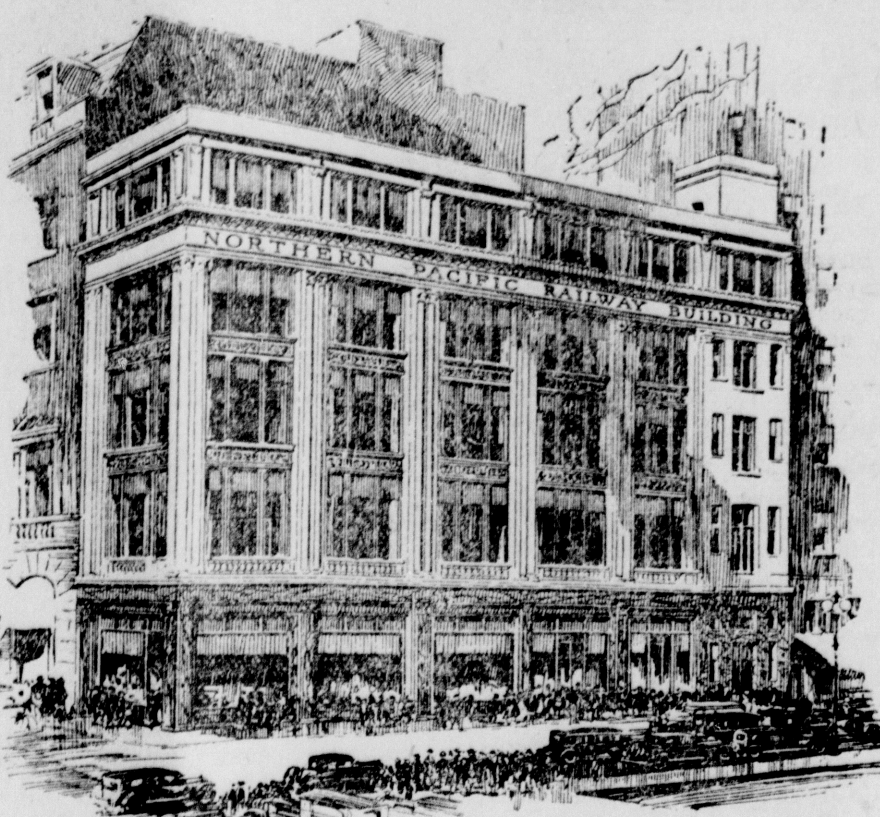

Foot Work

For two days there had a Swedish clerk in one of the shoe stores on Hollywood boulevard. He isn't there now, but he might have been had not the boss detected him in the act of throwing a brand new pair of shoes into the waste basket.

"Hey! What's the idea of throwing those shoes away like that?"

"They bane no good. I try them on six feller already and they don't fit no one."—Los Angeles Times.

New Northern Pacific Building Now Open in New York City

The industrial, agricultural and social progress of the Northwest and the recreational advantages of that territory are to be set constantly before countless thousands of persons at one of the busiest corners in New York.

The Northern Pacific Railway Company has just opened a new passenger office in New York at Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth street in a reconstructed building which for many years was the home of the famous Dreier & Company. Here is to be provided a convenient headquarters for northwest travelers in uptown New York and at the same time this new Northern Pacific office will serve Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon as an exposition building where every day in the year this territory served by the company's lines will be called to the attention of New Yorkers and transients.

The new Northern Pacific Railway building is a five-story structure of black marble and white stone. The interior of the passenger office carries color and theme of the railroad's trademark—black and red predominating. Large display windows on Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth street picture Northwest scenes and products, which are effectively shown as upon miniature theater stages with novel lighting effects to emphasize Northwest attractions and to catch and hold attention of passersby.

In announcing removal of the company's offices from 280 Broadway to the uptown location, A. B. Smith, passenger traffic manager, said this step is a part of the new policy of Northwest railroads. Recent public discussions have shown the need of better acquaintance and better understanding as between the people of the east and the people of the west, he said, and by establishing this office in the heart of the New York shopping district and equipping it to furnish information about the Northwest the Northern Pacific not only will facilitate the handling of its own business but will contribute in an important way to that better understanding.

With indications this year that travel to the North Pacific and intermediate territory will compare favorably with other "heavy passenger travel years," the opening of the new New York offices of the Northern Pacific is timely, Mr. Smith said.
